Summit Chances Grow

Kennedy May Set Talks With Red Premier Soon

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A Kennedy-Khrushchev conference on corrosive cold-war problems has become a definite possibility. The chances that one will be held, and held soon, are rated currently at 3 to 2.

But the grave issues of Laos and a valid ban on nuclear arms tests could turn out to be formidable barriers. In contrast, quick progress toward solutions could do much to assure a conference.

President Kennedy may extend a visit to Europe, which starts May 31, and stay on for his first meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev if things work out as they now appear likely to do. Either Stockholm or Vienna is regarded by the United States as a suitable site for the President and Premier to meet face to face across the conference table.

At the moment, it was learned, a meeting definitely is under consideration but no firm decision has been reached. That may come within a week.

Prospects that the leaders of the world's two greatest powers may consult produced both hearty endorsements and words of caution from the various leaders in Washington.

Here in Palm Beach, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, bombarded by questions about reports that efforts to arrange a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting were under way, told reporters he could say only, "There are no plans for any such meeting at present." He refused to read any significance into the phrase "at present." But it was there. Kennedy himself, closing out a relaxing five days on beaches and golf courses, was completely silent.

The President is known to be tremendously concerned that in the four months since he took command of government, East-West negotiations for an agreement forbidding nuclear weapons tests have deadlocked instead of making any real progress. These deadlocked negotiations are under way still in Geneva. So are efforts to bring a solution to the Laotian problem out of a 14-nation conference of Communist bloc and anti-Communist countries.

The Soviet premier had suggested previously that he would like to meet Kennedy. He said so soon after Kennedy took office. And it was understood that the present impetus for a conference originated less with Kennedy than with a new tip from Khrushchev to Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, that he wouldn't mind talking to the American President.

The Western allies already may have been sounded out by Washington on how they would regard a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting.

Kennedy has met with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany. He flies to Paris at the end of this month for six sessions in three days with President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk may have done some pulse feeling about a Kennedy-Khrushchev session when he and the foreign ministers of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries met last week in Oslo. Rusk now is in Geneva for talks on Laos and has had conversations in the Swiss capital with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. These could have touched on a possible meeting of their chiefs.

Not since Khrushchev torpedoed a Big Four summit conference over the U2 spy plane incident a year ago have the premier and an American President met. A year ago, of course, Dwight D. Eisenhower was President.

Geneva Talks Due Start; Laos Parties To Be 'Observers'

GENEVA (AP) — The United States reluctantly agreed today to take part in an international conference on Laos after President Kennedy approved an American concession that deliberately left the status of the Laotian delegates vague.

The conference, which was to have opened three days ago, now is expected to go through at least a formal opening ceremony tonight or Tuesday.

The problem that has held up the high-level meeting has been deciding who would speak for Laos in negotiations on its political future. Three rival Laotian delegations are here.

The United States originally took the position that the only Laotians who should be allowed at the conference table were representatives of the pro-Western government of Premier Boun Oum.

The Communists insisted that the Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels and their self-styled neutralist allies under Prince Souvanna Phouma — who is recognized by the Reds as the legal premier of Laos—should be the spokesmen for Laos.

A compromise formula worked out by British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville appeared to have the approval of all concerned.

The formula would allow all three rival Laotian delegations into the conference room as observers but avoid describing them as "representatives of Laos."

Instead, it was reported by British sources, they will be described as "Laotian delegates." This tricky phraseology avoids indicating whether they represent any government of the tiny jungle kingdom.

American agreement to attend the conference on this basis was given reluctantly by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk after consultations with President Kennedy.

The formal U.S. position still is that the royal government of Premier Boun Oum is the sole government of Laos. But American delegates said they are willing to sit in on the conference of 14 nations in which the other two factions participate on the DEATH CAR. Two from Wellsville were killed in this car early Sunday morning when it plunged over a steep embankment after missing the bridge on Route 172 about four miles east of East Canton. The car landed on its top in the ditch in the background. The vehicle had to be pulled up onto the tracks to be righted. It is 90 feet from the surface of the bridge to the tracks.

Auto Found On Railroad Near Canton

Richard L. Morrell, Jean A. Cline Lose Lives In Mishap

A Wellsville man and woman were killed when their car plunged 300 feet over an embankment and onto a railroad after missing a bridge approach on Route 172 about four miles east of East Canton sometime early Sunday morning.

Pronounced dead at Mercy Hospital in Canton were Richard L. Morrell, 27, of Wellsville R. D. 1, the driver, and Miss Jean Ann Cline, 24, of 1202½ Main St.

Stark County deputies said the car struck the railroad track bed headon, then overturned onto its top in a drainage ditch. Both bodies were found face down in the car in about 18 inches of water, deputies said.

The time of the crash was fixed sometime between 8 a. m. and 11 a. m., when the wreckage was discovered.

Walter W. Allen, who lives nearby, discovered the car. A Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman said an eastbound freight train passed the point about 8 and the car was not there at that time.

Sheriff's deputies said thick splashes of mud on the car had dried, indicating the accident had occured some time before it was discovered.

Mr. Morrell's head went through the windshield, but the girl may have drowned, having been pinned under his body, deputies reported.

Deputies said the car was 90 feet below the road surface of the bridge above. The car left the right side of the pavement, traveling 391 feet on the berm approaching the bridge. It then went between the bridge abutment and a bank, over an embankment, and plunged downward diagonally for 300 feet before finally striking the tracks.

Deputies said the car left no tracks on the embankment, indicating it was traveling at a high rate of speed because it completely jumped over the embankment.

Deputy Stark County Coroner Charles E. Staudt today ruled the deaths as accidental traffic fatalities.

Staudt said both died of concussion and drowning. Officials said they possibly could have gotten out of the car had they been conscious.

The deaths marked the 20th and 21st traffic fatalities this year in Stark County.

Chiang Gets New Pledge On U.S. Help

Johnson Promises Formosa Aid, Lists Stand On Red China

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson today gave Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek a new pledge of U.S. support and economic aid and assurance that the Kennedy administration has no intention of recognizing Red China.

Johnson and his party flew on to Hong Kong for a 24-hour rest stop after the vice president, on behalf of President Kennedy, assured President Chiang's Nationalists that the United States stands by them, beside them and behind them "today, tomorrow and every day to come."

Chiang, who almost never holds a news conference, joined Johnson for a conference for the newsmen in the vice president's party an told them he and Johnson had agreed on a joint statement to be issued tonight containing five assurances from Kennedy:

1. A pledge of continued U.S. support for the Nationalists.
2. The United States has no intention of recognizing the Peiping regime.
3. The United States will continue to oppose Red China's bid for a seat in the United Nations.
4. The United States will abide by its mutual defense treaty commitments with the Nationalists.
5. America will step up its assistance to Nationalist China's accelerated economic development program.

"I am certain this news of the definite stand of the United States will have a great effect in boosting morale here and in building up the hopes of the Chinese people on the mainland for eventual deliverance," Chiang said, speaking through an interpreter.

Chiang, 73, said there has been some "wavering and apprehension" of where the United States stands in its policy toward Asia. But he added Kennedy, in sending Johnson on his current mission, "made one of the wisest and most timely decisions of his administration."

Nott Removed From Force In City Order

Safety - Service Director Lee Copenhaver today removed Patrolman William E. Nott from the police department, upholding a suspension handed the officer May 2 by Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi on grounds of "inefficiency," charging the officer was absent because of illness nearly one-third of the time in the last 52 months.

Nott's removal became effective at noon and the director sent copies of his order to the Civil Service Commission, City Auditor Lawrence Applegate and Chief Radeschi.

The director notified Nott by letter on Friday that he was to be removed and allowed Nott until noon today to file a written explanation. However, the deadline passed without an explanation being filed.

Nott also was advised he can appeal the director's order to the Civil Service Commission.

The director's removal order said:

"Following his suspension by the chief of police on May 2, I conducted an inquiry on receipt of the suspension order.

"The inquiry, made May 5 and thereafter to secure testimony, indicated he was guilty of inefficiency as charged."

The letter then pointed out that illness made the officer incapable

Cooler Weather Due; But Today's To Be Hot

Temperatures soared to a high of 85 degrees Sunday afternoon, bringing visions of warm days on sandy beaches in the summer days ahead.

But not right away. Although the temperature will go up to 74-80 this afternoon, Tuesday will be cloudy and cooler, the Ohio Weatherman said. There may be scattered showers this afternoon and tonight, he added.

The mercury hung at 85 from 3 to 5 p. m. yesterday at Dam 7, near Midland. The overnight low was 60.

GOP Opening Attacks Upon Kennedy Plan

Senators Condemn Reorganization, Aid For Education Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans today launched a two-pronged attack against President Kennedy's aid to education program and his government reorganization orders.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said GOP senators will try to establish general party lines on these issues in a closed session Tuesday.

While Republicans are divided on the education issue, Bridges said he thinks a majority of them may support a tax-rebate substitute for the administration's $2.55 billion bill which comes up in the Senate Tuesday.

Instead of federal grants and loans for teachers' salaries and school construction over the next three years, Sens. Francis Case, R-S.D., and Norris Cotton, R-N.H. have proposed the return of federal tax revenues to the states for education purposes.

Bridges disclosed in an interview that resolutions have been drawn to attempt to reject four reorganization plans sent to Congress by Kennedy. He said he is confident from talks with Democrats that there will be bipartisan support for this rejection effort.

Goldfine Pleads Guilty In $800,000 Tax Case

BOSTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine, Boston industrialist, pleaded guilty today to charges of evading nearly $800,000 in personal and corporate income taxes.

U.S. Dist. Judge George C. Sweeney continued the case and ordered Goldfine to report to a court-appointed psychiatrist to determine his present mental competence.

6,000 Waited Tuesday For Hancock Vote

School Board Issues Statement To Seek Bond Issue Support

A fairly heavy turnout of the 22,395 registered voters is forecast for Tuesday's special election in Hancock County on a $5,283,000 school bond issue.

Chester City Office To Close For Voting

The Chester water works office in City Hall will be closed all day Tuesday because of the special election on a school bond issue in Hancock County, Lewis Govey, water works superintendent, said. His office is a polling place for the election.

Polls will be open from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. in each of the 32 precincts in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland, Pughtown and Weirton.

County Clerk Donald Stewart predicted the total vote will not be over 60 per cent. Based on interest shown in the past elections on school issues, the number who will cast ballots on the $5¼ million bond issue will be between 6,000 and 7,000.

The weatherman has indicated Tuesday will be mostly cloudy and cool with a chance of scattered showers.

The five-member County Board of Education today issued a formal statement to voters, pointing out the "importance of voting intelligently" and urging others to "base their views on facts, not rumors."

The proposed bond issue for 20 years would underwrite the cost of constructing a 600-pupil senior high school in Pughtown, to serve Northern Hancock County, a 1,000-pupil high school and 300 - pupil junior high school in Weirton and a 300-pupil elementary school in Chester.

Funds also would be provided for remodeling of shower and locker rooms in Chester High and Wells High in Newell, windows for

Judge Lists Nazi Opinion Of Eichmann

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—An American judge testified today that Hermann Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop told him Adolf Eichmann was a main cog in the Nazi program to exterminate Europe's Jews.

Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno, of Pittsburgh, told the Eichmann trial court the defendant even carried his program into the allied prisoner of war camps.

Musmanno testified on the basis of information he collected as a judge at the Nuernberg war crimes trials and as an interrogator for the U.S. Navy during the first Nuernberg trial in 1945-1946.

Reporting on his interrogation of top Nazi officials after their arrest, Musmanno told the court:

"Goering said he was not aware that the program of Jewish extermination had reached these reported proportions. The persons most responsible were Hitler, Bormann, Goebbels, Heydrich and Eichmann."

Asked if anyone else mentioned Eichmann, the judge replied:

"Yes, Ribbentrop said he re-

13 Hurt In Clashes Over Color Test In Alabama's Stations

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A bus was destroyed by a firebomb and several members of a racially-mixed group of "freedom riders" were brutally beaten as they sought to bring their test of color barriers in bus stations into Alabama.

Members, however, vowed today to continue their swing which started in Washington 11 days ago.

All told, 13 persons were taken to hospitals Sunday—12 for smoke inhalation suffered when some one in a crowd of angry white men threw a fire bomb into a stalled bus outside Anniston, and one for head cuts suffered at the hands of white men using pipes for clubs at a Birmingham bus station.

Two other persons required medical attention. None was hurt critically.

Plane Search Proves Futile

Camp And Boy, 19, Remain Unreported

Hopes waned today for the safety of Beaver County Commissioner Gordon Camp and a 19-year-old Geneva College student whose two-place plane apparently was downed Friday in a flight from Beaver Falls to Harrisburg.

More than 200 planes under the supervision of the Civil Air Patrol crisscrossed an area of 1,000 square miles for more than 11 hours Sunday in a futile search for the Cessna 172 which Camp was piloting. His passenger was John Licker of Aliquippa, president of the Beaver County Teens Democratic Club.

The rented plane took off from Beaver County Airport in Chippewa Township Friday at 7 a. m. and was due to land at an airstrip near Harrisburg two hours later. It has been unreported since. Camp, 55, of Rochester, was flying to a meeting with the other Beaver County commissioners, James Ross and Sam McCune.

CAP officials said the heaviest concentration of search planes was

Walker Trial Jury Chosen

Lisbon Court Opens Officer's Hearing

Selection of a jury marked the opening today of a trial in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon for Police Lt. Thomas A. Walker of East Liverpool, accused of larceny in connection with the disappearance of a television set from the office of Chief A. J. Radeschi.

A secret indictment returned by the April Grand Jury alleges the officer took a portable set which was being held as evidence in the case of several Warren men accused of stealing the TV from the Central Appliance Store on Dresden Ave. Lt. Walker earlier pleaded not guilty to the charge and was released on bond.

The lieutenant has been off duty since he was suspended March 31 on grounds of "malfeasance." The 30-day suspension expired in late April and he was granted an additional leave of absence pending the outcome of the case.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard will preside. Witnesses called by the state include Chief Radeschi,

Gary Cooper Mourned; Tribute Paid Film Figure

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The body of Gary Cooper lay in a mortuary chapel today as the world paid tribute to his greatness.

Rosary will be recited tonight for the 60-year-old star, who lost his fight with cancer Saturday. Tuesday his friends among the waning ranks of Hollywood greats will file into the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills for the funeral.

The shock of his passing was not lessened by the fact that it had been known for a month that he was dying. As the news swept around the world, it evoked words of appreciation for the lanky Montanan who personified the American hero.

Pope John XXIII cabled a message of sorrow to Cooper's widow and daughter. The British Broadcasting Corp. telecast a 15-minute tribute to the actor. "We feel like we've lost our best friend," said the movie critic of the Tokyo Shombun.

The Washington Post editorialized Cooper "came to be a symbol of the vigor, courage and heroism in American life."

The London Times devoted 800 words to Cooper, calling him "the all-American hero."

The Cannes film festival in France lost its gaiety with news of Cooper's death. "The entire festival is in mourning," said an

U.S. Seen Weaker

Bargaining Roles Could Hold Key To 'Big 2' Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prospective meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev could have fateful results for world peace.

Kennedy will go into the conference, assuming it is arranged, in an apparently weaker bargaining position than he might have wished.

But any weakness is considered by some of the President's closest advisers to be more apparent than real. For they think it more likely than not that Khrushchev sees the recent U.S. setbacks in Cuba and Laos as evidence not of inadequate U.S. power, but of restraint on the use of that power.

Yet there is concern in some responsible quarters here about Khrushchev's extremely confident attitude, at least as he has shown it publicly. And if this attitude of his holds up in his private talks with Kennedy, the result of the meeting could be to increase East-West tensions instead of opening the way for an improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Kennedy has not indicated publicly what he would like to talk about with Khrushchev. But it is understood that he almost certainly has two major themes in mind:

1. He would like to persuade the Soviet leader to modify the Soviet Union's position in the deadlocked negotiations at Gen-

Camp And Boy, 19, Remain Unreported

Hopes waned today for the safety of Beaver County Commissioner Gordon Camp and a 19-year-old Geneva College student whose two-place plane apparently was downed Friday in a flight from Beaver Falls to Harrisburg.

More than 200 planes under the supervision of the Civil Air Patrol crisscrossed an area of 1,000 square miles for more than 11 hours Sunday in a futile search for the Cessna 172 which Camp was piloting. His passenger was John Licker of Aliquippa, president of the Beaver County Teens Democratic Club.

The rented plane took off from Beaver County Airport in Chippewa Township Friday at 7 a. m. and was due to land at an airstrip near Harrisburg two hours later. It has been unreported since. Camp, 55, of Rochester, was flying to a meeting with the other Beaver County commissioners, James Ross and Sam McCune.

CAP officials said the heaviest concentration of search planes was

6,000 Waited Tuesday For Hancock Vote

School Board Issues Statement To Seek Bond Issue Support

A fairly heavy turnout of the 22,395 registered voters is forecast for Tuesday's special election in Hancock County on a $5,283,000 school bond issue.

Chester City Office To Close For Voting

The Chester water works office in City Hall will be closed all day Tuesday because of the special election on a school bond issue in Hancock County, Lewis Govey, water works superintendent, said. His office is a polling place for the election.

Polls will be open from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. in each of the 32 precincts in Chester, Newell, New Cumberland, Pughtown and Weirton.

County Clerk Donald Stewart predicted the total vote will not be over 60 per cent. Based on interest shown in the past elections on school issues, the number who will cast ballots on the $5¼ million bond issue will be between 6,000 and 7,000.

The weatherman has indicated Tuesday will be mostly cloudy and cool with a chance of scattered showers.

The five-member County Board of Education today issued a formal statement to voters, pointing out the "importance of voting intelligently" and urging others to "base their views on facts, not rumors."

The proposed bond issue for 20 years would underwrite the cost of constructing a 600-pupil senior high school in Pughtown, to serve Northern Hancock County, a 1,000-pupil high school and 300 - pupil junior high school in Weirton and a 300-pupil elementary school in Chester.

Funds also would be provided for remodeling of shower and locker rooms in Chester High and Wells High in Newell, windows for

Judge Lists Nazi Opinion Of Eichmann

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—An American judge testified today that Hermann Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop told him Adolf Eichmann was a main cog in the Nazi program to exterminate Europe's Jews.

Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno, of Pittsburgh, told the Eichmann trial court the defendant even carried his program into the allied prisoner of war camps.

Musmanno testified on the basis of information he collected as a judge at the Nuernberg war crimes trials and as an interrogator for the U.S. Navy during the first Nuernberg trial in 1945-1946.

Reporting on his interrogation of top Nazi officials after their arrest, Musmanno told the court:

"Goering said he was not aware that the program of Jewish extermination had reached these reported proportions. The persons most responsible were Hitler, Bormann, Goebbels, Heydrich and Eichmann."

Asked if anyone else mentioned Eichmann, the judge replied:

"Yes, Ribbentrop said he re-

Mob Ignites 'Mixed' Bus, Beats Riders

13 Hurt In Clashes Over Color Test In Alabama's Stations

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A bus was destroyed by a firebomb and several members of a racially-mixed group of "freedom riders" were brutally beaten as they sought to bring their test of color barriers in bus stations into Alabama.

Members, however, vowed today to continue their swing which started in Washington 11 days ago.

All told, 13 persons were taken to hospitals Sunday—12 for smoke inhalation suffered when some one in a crowd of angry white men threw a fire bomb into a stalled bus outside Anniston, and one for head cuts suffered at the hands of white men using pipes for clubs at a Birmingham bus station.

Two other persons required medical attention. None was hurt critically.

Walker Trial Jury Chosen

Lisbon Court Opens Officer's Hearing

Selection of a jury marked the opening today of a trial in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon for Police Lt. Thomas A. Walker of East Liverpool, accused of larceny in connection with the disappearance of a television set from the office of Chief A. J. Radeschi.

A secret indictment returned by the April Grand Jury alleges the officer took a portable set which was being held as evidence in the case of several Warren men accused of stealing the TV from the Central Appliance Store on Dresden Ave. Lt. Walker earlier pleaded not guilty to the charge and was released on bond.

The lieutenant has been off duty since he was suspended March 31 on grounds of "malfeasance." The 30-day suspension expired in late April and he was granted an additional leave of absence pending the outcome of the case.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard will preside. Witnesses called by the state include Chief Radeschi,

Gary Cooper Mourned; Tribute Paid Film Figure

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The body of Gary Cooper lay in a mortuary chapel today as the world paid tribute to his greatness.

Rosary will be recited tonight for the 60-year-old star, who lost his fight with cancer Saturday. Tuesday his friends among the waning ranks of Hollywood greats will file into the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills for the funeral.

The shock of his passing was not lessened by the fact that it had been known for a month that he was dying. As the news swept around the world, it evoked words of appreciation for the lanky Montanan who personified the American hero.

Pope John XXIII cabled a message of sorrow to Cooper's widow and daughter. The British Broadcasting Corp. telecast a 15-minute tribute to the actor. "We feel like we've lost our best friend," said the movie critic of the Tokyo Shombun.

The Washington Post editorialized Cooper "came to be a symbol of the vigor, courage and heroism in American life."

The London Times devoted 800 words to Cooper, calling him "the all-American hero."

The Cannes film festival in France lost its gaiety with news of Cooper's death. "The entire festival is in mourning," said an

U.S. Seen Weaker

Bargaining Roles Could Hold Key To 'Big 2' Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prospective meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev could have fateful results for world peace.

Kennedy will go into the conference, assuming it is arranged, in an apparently weaker bargaining position than he might have wished.

But any weakness is considered by some of the President's closest advisers to be more apparent than real. For they think it more likely than not that Khrushchev sees the recent U.S. setbacks in Cuba and Laos as evidence not of inadequate U.S. power, but of restraint on the use of that power.

Yet there is concern in some responsible quarters here about Khrushchev's extremely confident attitude, at least as he has shown it publicly. And if this attitude of his holds up in his private talks with Kennedy, the result of the meeting could be to increase East-West tensions instead of opening the way for an improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Kennedy has not indicated publicly what he would like to talk about with Khrushchev. But it is understood that he almost certainly has two major themes in mind:

1. He would like to persuade the Soviet leader to modify the Soviet Union's position in the deadlocked negotiations at Gen-

State Income Tax Battle May Flare Up In Future

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Behind the current budget battle between the Republican-dominated General Assembly and Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle lurks another potential money fight that does not follow party lines.

It arises from the pressure in some quarters for a state income tax. A side skirmish that crops up every legislative session is a demand that city income taxes be divided with other subdivisions.

Neither proposal has been taken seriously in the past and neither will be this year. But foes of both ideas fear the day may be coming when they will surge into the forefront as major issues.

Two For State Income Tax

Only two statewide organizations have taken formal stands in favor of a state income tax. The AFL-CIO would like to see it replace the sales tax as Ohio's chief source of general fund money. The Farm Bureau Federation would like to see it replace a chunk of the property taxes that support schools and other local functions.

But two top officials representing both parties — DiSalle and House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan — see little likelihood that either group will get its way in the foreseeable future.

One of the reasons is that 62 Ohio municipalities already are levying their own income taxes and more of them are certain to turn to that means of meeting their burgeoning local money needs.

Would Cripple Cities

Under Ohio's pre-emption doctrine, the state would wipe out the cities' right to levy income taxes if it went into that field. And under the present constitutional provision it would have to return half the revenue to local subdivisions.

"A state income tax would turn our whole system topsy-turvy," DiSalle says. "We would have to revamp the whole taxing structure, providing something for the cities to use in place of it."

"The state ought not to intervene in that field because the cities already have gone into it," Cloud says. "They have set up budgets heavily involving the income tax.

Would Be Limited

"On top of that, the amount and degree of federal income taxation precludes a heavy use of income tax by the state. You couldn't consider any more than 1 or 2 per cent."

DiSalle agrees with that, and goes on to point out that any state income tax that would be effective in replacing some other source would "have to be tremendous, with few or no exemptions."

"I don't think the rank and file of labor members are for a state income tax," the governor says. "Their leaders are for it, but they want high exemptions which in turn would destroy the base."

Basic Structure

Both DiSalle and Cloud believe it would be wise to retain the basic structure of Ohio's taxing system.

"Traditionally, we have reserved for local governments situs taxes such as real estate and personal property levies," Cloud says. "The state has kept for itself the excise taxes. This is because excise taxes are best collected and administered on a standard, centralized basis."

With the increasing use of income taxes by cities and villages, DiSalle sees a gradual change within the basic statewide setup.

"I can see the day when local government support will come from income taxes, school financing from property taxes and state government will continue to rely on excise taxes," the governor says.

Grows With Population

"The advantage of the excise tax is that it grows with population and economic growth. If we can get caught up on some of our back needs, the state can keep abreast of its money demands with the excise field.

"This is a hard time to catch up because the present productive segment of the population is small, reflecting the depression days of the 1930s. When the way and postwar generation moves into the production field, our economy will surge upward.

"The trouble right now is providing the money to educate that generation so it will be able to produce."

DiSalle also sees a close relationship between Ohio's potential industrial growth and its lack of an income tax.

Advantage for Ohio

"This is one of our advantages industrially over the 18 states which have income taxes," he says. "Our refusal to tax incomes will preserve our industrial soundness as much as any one factor can do it."

The governor takes issue with organized labor's argument that an income tax would be fairer than a sales tax.

"The sales tax is not as unfair as many people think," he says. "The basic exemption for food is comparable to the $600 individual exemption in the federal income tax. In some income and age groups, it is greater than the federal exemption. The sales tax certainly is not all bad."

Cloud believes it might be wise in the future to broaden the permission for local use of income taxes, especially for counties and school districts. He points out that counties already are permitted to levy an income tax if they adopt charter government (which none has so far).

Cites Local Problems

"This might be valuable in handling local problems that transcend local boundary lines," the speaker asserts. "I'm thinking, for instance, of higher education through community colleges, which could be established on a countywide basis.

"But from the local angle, it would be better for the people to impose the income tax on themselves than for the state to do it. The state would have to set up a distribution formula for returning some of it to the localities. It's difficult, if not impossible, to devise a distribution formula that will be fair to every subdivision.

"I think the state whould limit itself to providing the enabling legislation to allow localities to levy the income tax if they want."

Splitting Revenue

As for demands that cities be required to split their income tax revenue with other subdivisions whose residents work in the levying cities, Cloud says this would be unwise also because of the reliance of many cities on the revenue.

Here again, he favors the "area approach" where localities want to use it.

The Ohio Municipal League, which represents both large and small communities, has taken no stand on the issue but carries on a continuing research effort to shed light on it.

'Suburbs Should Share'

John Coleman, the league's executive director, says:

"Officials from most suburbs agree they should pay for core city services. What they question is whether the non-resident of the levying city should pay as much as the resident in terms of benefits derived.

"This argument is going on all over the country. Many experts in the field believe the non-residents must pay as much as the residents because much of the wealth is moving to the suburbs and the core cities will die on the vine if they don't."

Most large and medium-sized cities resist the split-revenue idea while smaller municipalities and townships favor it.

But Coleman says the income tax problem tends to be oversimplified.

Advantages and Problems

"There may be administrative problems in splitting revenue that would outweigh the advantages," he points out. "These could involve industry, which deducts the taxes from payrolls, as well as the government agencies concerned."

Considering such complexities, it's no wonder state and split income tax proposals tend to rest in the background in legislative sessions.

Twice Pursued, Twice Captured, Man Finally Held

Twice pursued and twice captured, a 37-year-old Midland man was jailed on three charges Saturday night by East Liverpool police after an alleged disturbance at an East End club.

He is Winston Twyman, 444 Penn Ave., accused of intoxication, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct by using profane language.

It all began at 9:17 p. m. when headquarters received a telephoned complaint from Sam Johnson, steward of the Veterans Social Club on Pennsylvania Ave., that a patron was unruly and should be ejected. When Patrolman Orin Smith arrived in a cruiser, Johnson and Twyman were on the sidewalk in front of the club, he reported.

At the cruiser's approach, Twyman fled on foot east on Pennsylvnaia Ave. and then south on Virginia Ave., the officer reported. Patrolman Smith found Twyman behind a fence at a nearby home and took him into custody.

When Twyman was taken to headquarters and placed in the interview room, he fled again. Officer Smith said he nabbed Twyman again a few minutes later as he was preparing to get into an auto. The second time he stayed in custody.

Twyman was fined $50 and costs on the resisting charge, and $10 and costs each on the other two counts, after pleading guilty to the three charges when arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning.

Asked by the judge about the events, Officer Smith related his part, telling the court of capturing the Midland man the first time after he fled from outside the club down Virginia Ave.

After being placed in the interview room, Twyman crawled through an open window into the police garage and then fled up Summit Ln. before being caught again near the Bus Terminal.

The Ohio Municipal League, which represents both large and small communities, has taken no stand on the issue but carries on a continuing research effort to shed light on it.

'Suburbs Should Share'

John Coleman, the league's executive director, says:

"Officials from most suburbs agree they should pay for core city services. What they question is whether the non-resident of the levying city should pay as much as the resident in terms of benefits derived.

"This argument is going on all over the country. Many experts in the field believe the non-residents must pay as much as the residents because much of the wealth is moving to the suburbs and the core cities will die on the vine if they don't."

Most large and medium-sized cities resist the split-revenue idea while smaller municipalities and townships favor it.

But Coleman says the income tax problem tends to be oversimplified.

Advantages and Problems

"There may be administrative problems in splitting revenue that would outweigh the advantages," he points out. "These could involve industry, which deducts the taxes from payrolls, as well as the government agencies concerned."

Considering such complexities, it's no wonder state and split income tax proposals tend to rest in the background in legislative sessions.

Twice Pursued, Twice Captured, Man Finally Held

Twice pursued and twice captured, a 37-year-old Midland man was jailed on three charges Saturday night by East Liverpool police after an alleged disturbance at an East End club.

He is Winston Twyman, 444 Penn Ave., accused of intoxication, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct by using profane language.

It all began at 9:17 p. m. when headquarters received a telephoned complaint from Sam Johnson, steward of the Veterans Social Club on Pennsylvania Ave., that a patron was unruly and should be ejected. When Patrolman Orin Smith arrived in a cruiser, Johnson and Twyman were on the sidewalk in front of the club, he reported.

At the cruiser's approach, Twyman fled on foot east on Pennsylvnaia Ave. and then south on Virginia Ave., the officer reported. Patrolman Smith found Twyman behind a fence at a nearby home and took him into custody.

When Twyman was taken to headquarters and placed in the interview room, he fled again. Officer Smith said he nabbed Twyman again a few minutes later as he was preparing to get into an auto. The second time he stayed in custody.

Twyman was fined $50 and costs on the resisting charge, and $10 and costs each on the other two counts, after pleading guilty to the three charges when arraigned before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning.

Asked by the judge about the events, Officer Smith related his part, telling the court of capturing the Midland man the first time after he fled from outside the club down Virginia Ave.

After being placed in the interview room, Twyman crawled through an open window into the police garage and then fled up Summit Ln. before being caught again near the Bus Terminal.

Facts And Figures On Parking Lot

Final action is scheduled by City Council Tuesday night on legislation providing for the purchase of the Ceramic Theater building and the eventual use of the site as a parking lot.

Some "Letters To The Editor" have indicated a mistaken impression as to the financing of the project. It will stand strictly on its own feet. There will be no city income tax money involved in the transaction.

HERE ARE SOME facts and figures which it is hoped will correct any faulty thinking on the matter.

Based on the experience of present off-street parking lots owned by the city, the estimated income per year from the proposed new lot would be $6,630. This figure represents some 50 parking meters that would bring in about $2.55 each week per meter. The present City Hall lot produces $2.64 per meter per week. The lot across from the City Hall produces $2.42 per meter per week. Curb meters produce about $3.60 per meter per week.

The 13-year income from the proposed new lot on the Ceramic site thus would be approximately $86,000.

Here's what the project would cost during a 13-year period:

Bond payment, $60,000; interest on notes first year, $2,400; interest on bonds for 12 years, $12,600; taxes for 13 years, $5,850, or a total of $80,850.

The $60,000 bond issue would cover the cost of the property, razing of the building, metering and blacktopping of the lot. The total life of the indebtedness would be 13 years, with the bonds issued over a 12-year maturity period, plus one-year notes until the bonds are issued.

AFTER THE 13 years, the city would own the lot debt-free. Expenses in subsequent years would be an estimated $450 per year. This would cover the cost of meter replacements and taxes. The income from the lot, in turn, would be some $6,630 per year.

We endorsed the proposal originally as a sound investment and as another step toward obtaining needed off-street parking facilities. And we do so again, based on the above figures.

Council will be acting wisely if it sees fit to enact the legislation leading to the parking lot when it comes up for third reading Tuesday night.

Voices Of The Opposition

One guess is as good as another about current efforts to give political representation to Americans who are not Kennedy Democrats. Who knows what they will lead to?

It is certain to be made to appear that all Americans who are not Kennedy Democrats are either actual or potential Republicans and that all the efforts are one form or another of Republican organization. But that is not what the efforts are leading to yet. There is no election in the offing.

In our two-party system, the opposition is referred to handily by the name of the opposition party. But in recent years the proportion of party-line Democrats and Republicans has been declining while the proportion of Americans who call themselves independent has been increasing. To be anti-Kennedy in 1961 is not necessarily to be a Republican.

THE CLOSEST THING to a gathering of party faithful under the Republican banner was last Thursday's meeting of his associates called by former President Eisenhower at Gettysburg. But even in that assemblage of former Cabinet officers and special appointees there were individuals whose Republicanism has been suspected in the minds of other Republicans. Even. Gen. Eisenhower's Republicanism was regarded as a presumption by some members of the party he joined after he first had been sounded out for a presidential nomination by the Democrats.

Former Vice President Nixon has been calling attention to the differences of opinion that exist between him and the Kennedy administration. New York Gov. Rockefeller has been keeping his views in the news successfully, though he has been preoccupied so far this year with the administration of his state.

Sen. Goldwater, the avowed voice of conservatism, has been filling more speaking engagements than one man should be expected to endure. Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck—the Ev and Charlie team that brightens television's coverage of politics—have been expounding their views. Yet, these men do not speak as one voice in politics. Their views vary.

But all their views are turning into an almost daily reminder that the Kennedy administration is equipped now with an opposition in fact as well as in name. This is an unpleasant reality to those who don't believe in political opposition unless they're doing the opposing. But it is a reassuring reality to all who grow fearful that the privilege of contrary opinion may somehow be lost by default unless it is practiced vigorously.

IT WILL CONTINUE to be a misfortune that the political opposition in our country has no official position; that its spokesmen have no official standing; that its members have no method of arriving at policy.

Ideally, defeated presidential candidates would continue to lead their parties. They would have a personal staff and finances. Ideally, former presidents would serve in the U.S. Senate, where they could gain an audience without having to speak at a banquet or hold a luncheon.

But in the absence of ideal conditions, the voices of the opposition are doing the best they can to make their existence known and their message heard. The two-party system is doing what it is supposed to do—bring out differences of opinion on public issues.

Our Lengthening Perspective

To every astronaut and to every ultra-high-altitude aviator there comes a privilege never before granted to men. They see the earth from a longer perspective than it ever was viewed before.

Cmdr. Shepard spoke of the "beautiful view." Maj. Gagarin told about being able to identify land masses by their shape. Test pilots who have taken up experimental planes to altitudes of more than 20 miles have shared with high-level balloonists the thrill of seeing the curvature of the earth's surface.

In a few more years men will be able to see the earth as a globe in space, the way a child sees it in miniature when he looks at a classroom globe. And in a few more than a few years men may see Earth as it appears from some other planet in their solar system—a system they may then be sharing with inhabitants of other planets.

These are no longer fantasies. They are ideas that have found backing in science and engineering. The lengthening of human perspective, once the prerogative of philosophers, is on its way to becoming a privilege of human adventurers who will change the minds of men with their deeds.

It has been less than 500 years since Columbus ceased to fear the consequences of sailing too far in one direction, and it surely will not be another 500 years before men will have fathomed the mystery of curvature in space.

The effect on human thought and life will be profound. How will provincialism survive when men habitually see the earth in terms of land masses? What would happen to human belligerency if men discovered Earth was no farther from another inhabited planet than that planet was from Earth? Would not nationalism and ideological warfare become unthinkable if the human race learned to exist in a vertical as well as a horizontal plane?

Everyone has his own reaction to the first probings in space. For militarists, the dream is of supremacy, control and terror. For merchants, it is of leveled barriers and free exchange. For the adventuresome, it is the thrill of a new sensation, an unsurpassed challenge. For the philosopher, it is a closer grasp of wisdom. But for no one will anything remain the same as human perspective lengthens. Man is learning to see himself and his environment as no man ever saw it before.

Nothing Too Good For Government?

While Republicans in the General Assembly are whooping up budget-cutting and Democrats are fighting like tigers to spend all they intended to spend is as good a time as any to explore this issue in public.

It isn't peculiar to any city or any state. They squabble about it in Washington and Podunk. The principle is always the same. Only the arithmetic is different.

The squabble is between those who argue that government, being the biggest thing there is, should get everything it wants and those who insist the source of wealth that supports government should have something to say about this.

In recent years the argument has been heated up by a theory that it is unpatriotic for taxpayers to be stingy with government; that public spending should be regarded as a status symbol and supported in the highest style there is. This has been particularly true of the federal government, whose outlandish spending has become untouchable.

Still another piece of nonsense has been tied into the argument over how much government should spend. This is the idea that government spending should not decline, no matter how far the economy may sag. It used to be that taxes came down occasionally to give taxpayers a breather. Today taxes never come down; they just keep going up, either through boosts in rates or shifts in policy and emphasis. And even at that they never catch up to spending in Washington.

Coming back to Ohio, where the argument is over a Republican effort to take 1.22 per cent from a $2,068,000,000 state budget, is there any Ohio taxpayer who thinks a 1.22 per cent cut would be fatal? What Ohio taxpayers would like to dream about is enough cutting to raise the prospect of tax-cutting to temper the financial wind to their shorn incomes—say about 5 per cent.

There are more than 500,000 elected local officials in the United States. Of these, nearly one-half serve without pay, about two-fifths are paid on a part-time basis, and about one in seven is paid full-time.

Red Carpetbagger

A New Form Of Dictatorship?

By David Lawrence

A new form of dictatorship is arising in America. It is "government by executive order."

David Lawrence

It means that, without the enactment of a single amendment to the Constitution or any new laws by Congress, President Kennedy can put out of business any company that refuses to obey the edicts he has just issued.

Every department of the government that buys anything from business — whether it be pencils or paper clips or typewriters or window shades or guns or mechanical parts of a defense weapon — must abide by the decree issued by the President.

Every time the government authorizes a purchase — even a subscription for a daily newspaper — the company must accept as a part of the order an agreement which says:

"The contractor will not discriminate against any employe or applicant for employment because of race, creed, color or national origin. The contractor will take affirmative action to ensure that applicants are employed, and that employes are treated during employment, without regard to their race, creed, color, or national origin.

"Such action shall include, but not be limited to, the following: employment, upgrading, demotion or transfer; recruitment or recruitment advertising; layoff or termination; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; and selection for training, including apprenticeship.

"The contractor agrees to post in conspicuous places, available to employes and applicants for employment, notices to be provided by the contracting officer setting forth the provisions of this nondiscrimination clause.

"The contractor will, in all solicitations or advertisements for employes placed by or on behalf of the contractor, state that all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color, or national origin. . . .

"The contractor will comply with all provisions of executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, and of the rules, regulations, and relevant orders of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity created thereby.

"THE CONTRACTOR will furnish all information and reports required by executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, and by the rules, regulations, and orders of said committee, or pursuant thereto, and will permit access to his books, records, and accounts by the contracting agency and the committee for purposes of investigation to ascertain compliance with such rules, regulations and orders.

"In the event of the contractor's non-compliance with the non-discrimination clauses of this contract or with any of the said rules, regulations or orders, this contract may be cancelled in whole or part and the contractor may be declared ineligible for further government contracts in accordance with procedures authorized in executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, and such other sanctions may be imposed and remedies invoked as provided in the said executive order or by rule, regulation, or order of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity or as otherwise provided by law."

This extraordinary document has been received by tens of thousands of companies and individuals who do business of any kind with the federal government but the most sensational feature is in the last paragraph, which says:

"The contractor will include the provisions of the foregoing paragraphs (1) through (6) in every subcontract or purchase order unless exempted by rules, regulations or orders of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity issued pursuant to section 303 of executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, so that such provisions will be binding upon each subcontractor or vendor.

"The contractor will take such action with respect to any subcontract or purchase order as the contracting agency may direct as a means of enforcing such provisions, including sanctions for non-compliance."

THE 14th AMENDMENT to the Constitution — from which the alleged authority in the whole nondiscrimination controversy has been derived — says that "the Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article." But President Kennedy has let it be known that he doesn't need any more laws on civil rights.

He is using instead the device of the executive order, even though bills to set up a federal fair employment practices commission have been defeated several times by Congress. No law has been passed to govern the relations of contractors to the government or their methods of hiring employes.

It might be assumed that the aggrieved party could go to court and argue that no such authority is granted under any law or any article of the Constitution. Unfortunately, it is difficult from a legal standpoint to sue the government without its consent. Supreme Court decisions have upheld that viewpoint.

So coercion and compulsion now are to be used to obtain compliance with executive orders and decrees and the only recourse the injured citizen will have is to the Congress and his fellow citizens, who alone can put an end to dictatorial government.

Reds Aid Cuba

By Roy Perrott

HAVANA

Interviews with two Cuban leaders show how vast the scale of economic aid for Cuba from several Communist countries.

Ernesto "Che" Guevara, minister for industry, has revealed that Cuba has received $257 million in loans since Fidel Castro came to power, made up as follows:

From Russia — $100 million; Communist China, $70 million; Czechoslovakia, $40 million; Poland, $13 million; East Germany, $10 million; Hungary, $7 million; Bulgaria, $5 million; and the small remainder from other sources.

Cuba was forced to ask for help from these countries by the United States blockade, said Guevara.

The loans from the East European countries are mainly at 2 per cent interest spread over five years. China is not charging any interest.

Since taking power the government said it had spent $195 million on industry; and $125 million in the fight against illiteracy.

INDUSTRY here, he said, is now 82 per cent, nationalized; banks 100 per cent, and land 50 per cent government owned.

The Communist countries, he said, also helped by trading, as with the Russian purchases of Cuban sugar, oil and tobacco, and in developing nickel and copper production. China has also helped with technical advice.

There is still, of course, a private sector of industry, business and agriculture left in Cuba — mostly small shops, small-to-medium industries and about 40 per cent of agricultural land is still under private ownership.

But the question is how long these will be allowed to remain outside national ownership?

There are very slight but significant differences of view among the leadership on this matter. Castro says there are no plans to take over these small-to-medium pieces of profit - earning property and the president, Osvaldo Dorticos, also says private enterprise will go on.

Guevara, however, the minister who counts most in economic planning, slightly qualifies this forecast by saying that small business will not be nationalized "for many years."

Summitry And Travel

By James Marlow

Kennedy And Secretary Rusk Change Minds

WASHINGTON

Time and events in a disorderly world dented the ideas of president Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk about summitry and travel.

Just a few months ago Kennedy indicated a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev—who insulted President Eisenhower in Paris just a year ago Tuesday—was a long way off.

Now the American and Russian governments are dickering to bring Kennedy and Khrushchev together in the near future.

Rusk was not only cautious about summit get-togethers for a President but even about travel for a secretary of state. Rusk, remembering that John Foster Dulles was the most traveled secretary in history, told a news conference March 9:

"I personally have felt my time can be spent to best advantage in Washington."

But in the two months since then he has attended four international conferences outside this country:

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (worried about the increasing Communist takeover in Laos) in Bangkok, Thailand; the Central Treaty Organization (worried about the possibility of revolution in Iran) in Ankara, Turkey; the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (anxious to mend its differences and show Russia a stiff lip) in Oslo, Norway; and now in Geneva, Switzerland, for a 14-nation conference on setting up a neutral government in Laos.

Kennedy goes to Canada Tuesday for a visit and then travels to Paris May 31 for a conference with French President Charles de Gaulle. He'll most likely seek Khrushchev immediately afterward, if plans are completed.

This is what Kennedy said about summit meetings during the 1960 presidential campaign:

"Before we go to the summit, before we ever meet again, I think it is important that the United States build its strength, build its military strength as well as its economic strength.

"If we negotiate from a position where the power balance is moving away from us, it is extremely difficult to meet a situation on Berlin as well as other things."

(Berlin is not an issue at the moment but is expected to be this year. But in the time since Kennedy made that statement—a short time ago as military build-up goes—this country hasn't been able to add much to its strength.)

But Kennedy went on: "I will not meet Mr. Khrushchev unless there were some agreement at the secondary level, foreign ministers or ambassadors, that would indicate that the meeting will have some hope of success or useful exchange of ideas."

Here's Rusk on summit meetings in a talk he made Jan. 18, 1960:

"It diverts time and energy (the President's) from exactly the point at which we can spare it least; it does not give us effective negotiations; such experience as we have had with summit diplomacy does not encourage the view that it contributes to the advancement of American interests." He added, "Summit diplomacy is to be approached with the wariness with which a prudent physician prescribes habit-forming drugs."

On March 9 Rusk said this about traveling by a secretary of state: "I personally have felt that my time can be spent to best advantage in Washington and I hope to make good on that over the years."

But he added that he didn't want to be dogmatic about this.

We Strain At Gnats

By Raymond Moley

With a shuddering eruption reserved only for the gravest crimes, the press recently "exposed" the solicitation of $100 tickets for the Kennedy birthday Democratic fund-raising dinner by an official of the oil industry.

The oil man said that Interior Secretary Udall wanted the tickets sold. Cuba, Laos, and the astronaut were moved aside to display this "shocking" disclosure.

I am not naive enough to think that the New York editors really believed this to be important. They were merely aiming at what they believed to be an item interesting to a public too superficial to understand anything really important. I happen to have another opinion of public intelligence but that is a matter of opinion upon which editors may disagree.

I hold no brief for Udall in this matter. In his hundred days of office, it is the third example of his belief that the habits and methods of a Tammany district leader are appropriate for the highest levels of the government of the United States.

NO ONE, not even a New York editor, can believe that the oil industry can buy anything of importance with a few hundred-dollar bills. Or that this sort of shakedown is new or limited to the Democratic party. But it was something easy to write about and easy for anyone with a grain of sense to understand.

I am making the point of relative importance.

Secretary Udall as head of the Interior Department is responsible for a very large part of the wealth of the United States.

In terms of property values the Interior Department is the most important government agency except the military. It is running a stupendous business operating—leasing public lands and mineral resources, conducting a vast operation in the production and distribution of electric power and holding the fate of vast numbers who make their living on public lands.

There was no clamor in the New York press or in Congress when Udall and the President appointed to all the important posts in the Interior Department individuals whose records indicate they are intent upon a mammoth monopoly in the generation and distribution of the nation's most important and vital industry, electric power.

Here is the declared intention of this bureaucracy, stated by Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the interior, in a speech in Texas on April 25:

"Within 10 weeks after taking office President Kennedy recommended to Congress that the huge new atomic reactor at Hanford, Wash., be converted to a dual-purpose plant with a power production capacity of 700,000 kilwatts. . . the largest power producing atomic reactor in the world. . . .

"President Kennedy has declared it is his policy, and Secretary Udall has reiterated it on several occasions, to provide leadership directed to the development of a nationwide high voltage common carrier transmission grid."

THIS MEANS simply that the power produced by all the federal dams in the Northwest, in Rocky Mountain states, the Missouri Valley, the Southwest Power Administration, the TVA, and other areas would be carried over a giant, monopolistic federal system of transmission lines.

In our present civilization electric power is the vital link upon which not only all individual enterprise must depend but upon which every individual and family must rely.

This would mean the key to a socialist economy. This idea has been the dream of every socialist in and out of government, for more than a generation.

Only the press and the Congress can make this grand design known to the public. But it is forgotten while we are kept amused by the selling of a few tickets to a political jamboree.

The $60,000 bond issue would cover the cost of the property, razing of the building, metering and blacktopping of the lot. The total life of the indebtedness would be 13 years, with the bonds issued over a 12-year maturity period, plus one-year notes until the bonds are issued.

AFTER THE 13 years, the city would own the lot debt-free. Expenses in subsequent years would be an estimated $450 per year. This would cover the cost of meter replacements and taxes. The income from the lot, in turn, would be some $6,630 per year.

We endorsed the proposal originally as a sound investment and as another step toward obtaining needed off-street parking facilities. And we do so again, based on the above figures.

Council will be acting wisely if it sees fit to enact the legislation leading to the parking lot when it comes up for third reading Tuesday night.

Voices Of The Opposition

One guess is as good as another about current efforts to give political representation to Americans who are not Kennedy Democrats. Who knows what they will lead to?

It is certain to be made to appear that all Americans who are not Kennedy Democrats are either actual or potential Republicans and that all the efforts are one form or another of Republican organization. But that is not what the efforts are leading to yet. There is no election in the offing.

In our two-party system, the opposition is referred to handily by the name of the opposition party. But in recent years the proportion of party-line Democrats and Republicans has been declining while the proportion of Americans who call themselves independent has been increasing. To be anti-Kennedy in 1961 is not necessarily to be a Republican.

THE CLOSEST THING to a gathering of party faithful under the Republican banner was last Thursday's meeting of his associates called by former President Eisenhower at Gettysburg. But even in that assemblage of former Cabinet officers and special appointees there were individuals whose Republicanism has been suspected in the minds of other Republicans. Even. Gen. Eisenhower's Republicanism was regarded as a presumption by some members of the party he joined after he first had been sounded out for a presidential nomination by the Democrats.

Former Vice President Nixon has been calling attention to the differences of opinion that exist between him and the Kennedy administration. New York Gov. Rockefeller has been keeping his views in the news successfully, though he has been preoccupied so far this year with the administration of his state.

Sen. Goldwater, the avowed voice of conservatism, has been filling more speaking engagements than one man should be expected to endure. Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck—the Ev and Charlie team that brightens television's coverage of politics—have been expounding their views. Yet, these men do not speak as one voice in politics. Their views vary.

But all their views are turning into an almost daily reminder that the Kennedy administration is equipped now with an opposition in fact as well as in name. This is an unpleasant reality to those who don't believe in political opposition unless they're doing the opposing. But it is a reassuring reality to all who grow fearful that the privilege of contrary opinion may somehow be lost by default unless it is practiced vigorously.

IT WILL CONTINUE to be a misfortune that the political opposition in our country has no official position; that its spokesmen have no official standing; that its members have no method of arriving at policy.

Ideally, defeated presidential candidates would continue to lead their parties. They would have a personal staff and finances. Ideally, former presidents would serve in the U.S. Senate, where they could gain an audience without having to speak at a banquet or hold a luncheon.

But in the absence of ideal conditions, the voices of the opposition are doing the best they can to make their existence known and their message heard. The two-party system is doing what it is supposed to do—bring out differences of opinion on public issues.

Our Lengthening Perspective

To every astronaut and to every ultra-high-altitude aviator there comes a privilege never before granted to men. They see the earth from a longer perspective than it ever was viewed before.

Cmdr. Shepard spoke of the "beautiful view." Maj. Gagarin told about being able to identify land masses by their shape. Test pilots who have taken up experimental planes to altitudes of more than 20 miles have shared with high-level balloonists the thrill of seeing the curvature of the earth's surface.

In a few more years men will be able to see the earth as a globe in space, the way a child sees it in miniature when he looks at a classroom globe. And in a few more than a few years men may see Earth as it appears from some other planet in their solar system—a system they may then be sharing with inhabitants of other planets.

These are no longer fantasies. They are ideas that have found backing in science and engineering. The lengthening of human perspective, once the prerogative of philosophers, is on its way to becoming a privilege of human adventurers who will change the minds of men with their deeds.

It has been less than 500 years since Columbus ceased to fear the consequences of sailing too far in one direction, and it surely will not be another 500 years before men will have fathomed the mystery of curvature in space.

The effect on human thought and life will be profound. How will provincialism survive when men habitually see the earth in terms of land masses? What would happen to human belligerency if men discovered Earth was no farther from another inhabited planet than that planet was from Earth? Would not nationalism and ideological warfare become unthinkable if the human race learned to exist in a vertical as well as a horizontal plane?

Everyone has his own reaction to the first probings in space. For militarists, the dream is of supremacy, control and terror. For merchants, it is of leveled barriers and free exchange. For the adventuresome, it is the thrill of a new sensation, an unsurpassed challenge. For the philosopher, it is a closer grasp of wisdom. But for no one will anything remain the same as human perspective lengthens. Man is learning to see himself and his environment as no man ever saw it before.

Nothing Too Good For Government?

While Republicans in the General Assembly are whooping up budget-cutting and Democrats are fighting like tigers to spend all they intended to spend is as good a time as any to explore this issue in public.

It isn't peculiar to any city or any state. They squabble about it in Washington and Podunk. The principle is always the same. Only the arithmetic is different.

The squabble is between those who argue that government, being the biggest thing there is, should get everything it wants and those who insist the source of wealth that supports government should have something to say about this.

In recent years the argument has been heated up by a theory that it is unpatriotic for taxpayers to be stingy with government; that public spending should be regarded as a status symbol and supported in the highest style there is. This has been particularly true of the federal government, whose outlandish spending has become untouchable.

Still another piece of nonsense has been tied into the argument over how much government should spend. This is the idea that government spending should not decline, no matter how far the economy may sag. It used to be that taxes came down occasionally to give taxpayers a breather. Today taxes never come down; they just keep going up, either through boosts in rates or shifts in policy and emphasis. And even at that they never catch up to spending in Washington.

Coming back to Ohio, where the argument is over a Republican effort to take 1.22 per cent from a $2,068,000,000 state budget, is there any Ohio taxpayer who thinks a 1.22 per cent cut would be fatal? What Ohio taxpayers would like to dream about is enough cutting to raise the prospect of tax-cutting to temper the financial wind to their shorn incomes—say about 5 per cent.

There are more than 500,000 elected local officials in the United States. Of these, nearly one-half serve without pay, about two-fifths are paid on a part-time basis, and about one in seven is paid full-time.

A New Form Of Dictatorship?

By David Lawrence

A new form of dictatorship is arising in America. It is "government by executive order."

It means that, without the enactment of a single amendment to the Constitution or any new laws by Congress, President Kennedy can put out of business any company that refuses to obey the edicts he has just issued.

David Lawrence

Every department of the government that buys anything from business — whether it be pencils or paper clips or typewriters or window shades or guns or mechanical parts of a defense weapon — must abide by the decree issued by the President.

Every time the government authorizes a purchase — even a subscription for a daily newspaper — the company must accept as a part of the order an agreement which says:

"The contractor will not discriminate against any employe or applicant for employment because of race, creed, color or national origin. The contractor will take affirmative action to ensure that applicants are employed, and that employes are treated during employment, without regard to their race, creed, color, or national origin.

"Such action shall include, but not be limited to, the following: employment, upgrading, demotion or transfer; recruitment or recruitment advertising; layoff or termination; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; and selection for training, including apprenticeship.

"The contractor agrees to post in conspicuous places, available to employes and applicants for employment, notices to be provided by the contracting officer setting forth the provisions of this nondiscrimination clause.

"The contractor will, in all solicitations or advertisements for employes placed by or on behalf of the contractor, state that all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color, or national origin. . . .

"The contractor will comply with all provisions of executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, and of the rules, regulations, and relevant orders of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity created thereby.

"THE CONTRACTOR will furnish all information and reports required by executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, and by the rules, regulations, and orders of said committee, or pursuant thereto, and will permit access to his books, records, and accounts by the contracting agency and the committee for purposes of investigation to ascertain compliance with such rules, regulations and orders.

"In the event of the contractor's non-compliance with the non-discrimination clauses of this contract or with any of the said rules, regulations or orders, this contract may be cancelled in whole or part and the contractor may be declared ineligible for further government contracts in accordance with procedures authorized in executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, and such other sanctions may be imposed and remedies invoked as provided in the said executive order or by rule, regulation, or order of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity or as otherwise provided by law."

This extraordinary document has been received by tens of thousands of companies and individuals who do business of any kind with the federal government but the most sensational feature is in the last paragraph, which says:

"The contractor will include the provisions of the foregoing paragraphs (1) through (6) in every subcontract or purchase order unless exempted by rules, regulations or orders of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity issued pursuant to section 303 of executive order No. 10925 of March 6, 1961, so that such provisions will be binding upon each subcontractor or vendor.

"The contractor will take such action with respect to any subcontract or purchase order as the contracting agency may direct as a means of enforcing such provisions, including sanctions for non-compliance."

THE 14th AMENDMENT to the Constitution — from which the alleged authority in the whole nondiscrimination controversy has been derived — says that "the Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article." But President Kennedy has let it be known that he doesn't need any more laws on civil rights.

He is using instead the device of the executive order, even though bills to set up a federal fair employment practices commission have been defeated several times by Congress. No law has been passed to govern the relations of contractors to the government or their methods of hiring employes.

It might be assumed that the aggrieved party could go to court and argue that no such authority is granted under any law or any article of the Constitution. Unfortunately, it is difficult from a legal standpoint to sue the government without its consent. Supreme Court decisions have upheld that viewpoint.

So coercion and compulsion now are to be used to obtain compliance with executive orders and decrees and the only recourse the injured citizen will have is to the Congress and his fellow citizens, who alone can put an end to dictatorial government.

Reds Aid Cuba

By Roy Perrott

HAVANA

Interviews with two Cuban leaders show how vast the scale of economic aid for Cuba from several Communist countries.

Ernesto "Che" Guevara, minister for industry, has revealed that Cuba has received $257 million in loans since Fidel Castro came to power, made up as follows:

From Russia — $100 million; Communist China, $70 million; Czechoslovakia, $40 million; Poland, $13 million; East Germany, $10 million; Hungary, $7 million; Bulgaria, $5 million; and the small remainder from other sources.

Cuba was forced to ask for help from these countries by the United States blockade, said Guevara.

The loans from the East European countries are mainly at 2 per cent interest spread over five years. China is not charging any interest.

Since taking power the government said it had spent $195 million on industry; and $125 million in the fight against illiteracy.

INDUSTRY here, he said, is now 82 per cent, nationalized; banks 100 per cent, and land 50 per cent government owned.

The Communist countries, he said, also helped by trading, as with the Russian purchases of Cuban sugar, oil and tobacco, and in developing nickel and copper production. China has also helped with technical advice.

There is still, of course, a private sector of industry, business and agriculture left in Cuba — mostly small shops, small-to-medium industries and about 40 per cent of agricultural land is still under private ownership.

But the question is how long these will be allowed to remain outside national ownership?

There are very slight but significant differences of view among the leadership on this matter. Castro says there are no plans to take over these small-to-medium pieces of profit - earning property and the president, Osvaldo Dorticos, also says private enterprise will go on.

Guevara, however, the minister who counts most in economic planning, slightly qualifies this forecast by saying that small business will not be nationalized "for many years."

Summitry And Travel

By James Marlow

Kennedy And Secretary Rusk Change Minds

WASHINGTON

Time and events in a disorderly world dented the ideas of president Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk about summitry and travel.

Just a few months ago Kennedy indicated a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev—who insulted President Eisenhower in Paris just a year ago Tuesday—was a long way off.

Now the American and Russian governments are dickering to bring Kennedy and Khrushchev together in the near future.

Rusk was not only cautious about summit get-togethers for a President but even about travel for a secretary of state. Rusk, remembering that John Foster Dulles was the most traveled secretary in history, told a news conference March 9:

"I personally have felt my time can be spent to best advantage in Washington."

But in the two months since then he has attended four international conferences outside this country:

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (worried about the increasing Communist takeover in Laos) in Bangkok, Thailand; the Central Treaty Organization (worried about the possibility of revolution in Iran) in Ankara, Turkey; the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (anxious to mend its differences and show Russia a stiff lip) in Oslo, Norway; and now in Geneva, Switzerland, for a 14-nation conference on setting up a neutral government in Laos.

Kennedy goes to Canada Tuesday for a visit and then travels to Paris May 31 for a conference with French President Charles de Gaulle. He'll most likely seek Khrushchev immediately afterward, if plans are completed.

This is what Kennedy said about summit meetings during the 1960 presidential campaign:

"Before we go to the summit, before we ever meet again, I think it is important that the United States build its strength, build its military strength as well as its economic strength.

"If we negotiate from a position where the power balance is moving away from us, it is extremely difficult to meet a situation on Berlin as well as other things."

(Berlin is not an issue at the moment but is expected to be this year. But in the time since Kennedy made that statement—a short time ago as military build-up goes—this country hasn't been able to add much to its strength.)

But Kennedy went on: "I will not meet Mr. Khrushchev unless there were some agreement at the secondary level, foreign ministers or ambassadors, that would indicate that the meeting will have some hope of success or useful exchange of ideas."

Here's Rusk on summit meetings in a talk he made Jan. 18, 1960:

"It diverts time and energy (the President's) from exactly the point at which we can spare it least; it does not give us effective negotiations; such experience as we have had with summit diplomacy does not encourage the view that it contributes to the advancement of American interests." He added, "Summit diplomacy is to be approached with the wariness with which a prudent physician prescribes habit-forming drugs."

On March 9 Rusk said this about traveling by a secretary of state: "I personally have felt that my time can be spent to best advantage in Washington and I hope to make good on that over the years."

But he added that he didn't want to be dogmatic about this.

We Strain At Gnats

By Raymond Moley

With a shuddering eruption reserved only for the gravest crimes, the press recently "exposed" the solicitation of $100 tickets for the Kennedy birthday Democratic fund-raising dinner by an official of the oil industry.

The oil man said that Interior Secretary Udall wanted the tickets sold. Cuba, Laos, and the astronaut were moved aside to display this "shocking" disclosure.

I am not naive enough to think that the New York editors really believed this to be important. They were merely aiming at what they believed to be an item interesting to a public too superficial to understand anything really important. I happen to have another opinion of public intelligence but that is a matter of opinion upon which editors may disagree.

I hold no brief for Udall in this matter. In his hundred days of office, it is the third example of his belief that the habits and methods of a Tammany district leader are appropriate for the highest levels of the government of the United States.

NO ONE, not even a New York editor, can believe that the oil industry can buy anything of importance with a few hundred-dollar bills. Or that this sort of shakedown is new or limited to the Democratic party. But it was something easy to write about and easy for anyone with a grain of sense to understand.

I am making the point of relative importance.

Secretary Udall as head of the Interior Department is responsible for a very large part of the wealth of the United States.

In terms of property values the Interior Department is the most important government agency except the military. It is running a stupendous business operating—leasing public lands and mineral resources, conducting a vast operation in the production and distribution of electric power and holding the fate of vast numbers who make their living on public lands.

There was no clamor in the New York press or in Congress when Udall and the President appointed to all the important posts in the Interior Department individuals whose records indicate they are intent upon a mammoth monopoly in the generation and distribution of the nation's most important and vital industry, electric power.

Here is the declared intention of this bureaucracy, stated by Kenneth Holum, assistant secretary of the interior, in a speech in Texas on April 25:

"Within 10 weeks after taking office President Kennedy recommended to Congress that the huge new atomic reactor at Hanford, Wash., be converted to a dual-purpose plant with a power production capacity of 700,000 kilwatts. . . the largest power producing atomic reactor in the world. . . .

"President Kennedy has declared it is his policy, and Secretary Udall has reiterated it on several occasions, to provide leadership directed to the development of a nationwide high voltage common carrier transmission grid."

THIS MEANS simply that the power produced by all the federal dams in the Northwest, in Rocky Mountain states, the Missouri Valley, the Southwest Power Administration, the TVA, and other areas would be carried over a giant, monopolistic federal system of transmission lines.

In our present civilization electric power is the vital link upon which not only all individual enterprise must depend but upon which every individual and family must rely.

This would mean the key to a socialist economy. This idea has been the dream of every socialist in and out of government, for more than a generation.

Only the press and the Congress can make this grand design known to the public. But it is forgotten while we are kept amused by the selling of a few tickets to a political jamboree.

Weir High and a heating plant for Weir Junior High.

A strenuous campaign in support of the bond issue has been waged by various parent-teacher associations and school faculty members and principals.

The County Board of Education has emphasized that passage of the bond issue will not mean increased tax rates, as the present rates would be continued for 20 years.

The proposed new Northern high school would be a campus-styled group of buildings erected on a 96-acre tract along Gas Valley Rd., for sophomores, juniors and seniors.

The expansion and modernization program was recommended for the system by a research team from Ohio State University following a six-month survey of county schools. The new buildings would aid the board in providing modern facilities for yearly increases in enrollments.

Indications are that Tuesday's turnout will nearly equal the previous high turnout on a school issue that was noted in 1957. A total of 7,395 cast ballots four years ago in a special election on a much-debated $10 per capita tax. The issue was defeated.

In 1958, county voters approved by a vote of 3,739 in favor and only 968 against a $1 million school bond issue to finance an expansion program. That bond expires in July. Total vote on the proposal was 4,707.

In a special election in 1959 for approval of a 50 per cent levy for classroom improvements, the proposal was approved with 3,432 voters participating. A total of 2,153 approved the measure and 1,279 dissented. It was the lightest turnout on a school issue in more than two decades.

The only available registration figures, those compiled for the Nov. 8 Presidential election, show 5,256 eligible voters in Grant District, 2,647 in Clay, and 14,443 in Butler, with 49 independents.

The present rates that would be extended for 20 years if the bond issue is approved are Class I property, 10½ cents on each $100 in assessed valuation; Class II, 21 cents, and Classes III and IV, 42 cents.

The new buildings were designed by Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects. Sketches of the proposed new schools have been made available for the public at the various county schools and at meetings of civic groups.

The board's statement on Tuesday's election said in part:

"A vote to continue the present building bond issue, and to enlarge it sufficiently to carry out our present plans and needs in our schools for the present and for the future, will give Hancock County not only fire resistant buildings of modern design, but will permit our school authorities to present and offer to our boys and girls a school program in curriculum equal to the best in the United States.

"West Virginia schools have long been considered below the national average, but Hancock County has improved its schools the past several years both in quality of teachers and in school room equipment, until now we are a model for the other counties and are being studied and copied in many parts of the state.

"We five members of the Board of Education are all solidly behind this new school program for Hancock County. We realize the needs that are forever growing for more school rooms and better teaching facilities.

"We want to see Hancock County schools continue to move forward in every possible way, to give the boys and girls the very best in elementary, and high school opportunities in education. We want to see that they are safely transported, we want to see them in fire resistant modern school rooms, with the best possible teaching methods.

"Since nearly one-half of our school population are bus pupils, a hot lunch program has long been my wish, as it has been with all board members," Dr. W. Dale Williams, president, noted.

"This new school program will put a hot lunch in every school in the county. If it saves the parents a nickle a day, it will pay for the money it will cost them for the bond issue."

"The average property owner is paying and will continue to pay between $6 and $7 a year to pay off this renewal. We will have a small, re-assessment raise in property values each year for the next three years, but this will not effect the payments on the bond issue.

"As the assessment goes up on my property and yours, the rate will go down, this to keep the yearly payment the same or nearly the same," Dr. Williams said.

"The taxes in the county for schools, the regular school levy of $9 per thousand valuation, and the bond for building, together are only a little over $11. On both sides of us, the taxes for schools are five times that figure in many places. Taxes are necessary, because they pay for such services as fire and police protection, health and hospitals, sanitation needs and most important the education of our youth.

"Vote intelligently at elections, especially those involving tax rates and bonding. And urge others to base their views on facts, not rumors," the board's statement said.

The statement was signed by Dr. Williams and Robert Miller and Mrs. Mary Swartz of Weirton, Fred Allison of Newell and John Boyd of Chester, members.

Even the Communist press paid tribute. In Paris, the Humanite headlined: "America loses cowboy number one." Rome's L'Unita proclaimed: "A great actor disappears." Hancock

Weir High and a heating plant for Weir Junior High.

A strenuous campaign in support of the bond issue has been waged by various parent-teacher associations and school faculty members and principals.

The County Board of Education has emphasized that passage of the bond issue will not mean increased tax rates, as the present rates would be continued for 20 years.

The proposed new Northern high school would be a campus-styled group of buildings erected on a 96-acre tract along Gas Valley Rd., for sophomores, juniors and seniors.

The expansion and modernization program was recommended for the system by a research team from Ohio State University following a six-month survey of county schools. The new buildings would aid the board in providing modern facilities for yearly increases in enrollments.

Indications are that Tuesday's turnout will nearly equal the previous high turnout on a school issue that was noted in 1957. A total of 7,395 cast ballots four years ago in a special election on a much-debated $10 per capita tax. The issue was defeated.

In 1958, county voters approved by a vote of 3,739 in favor and only 968 against a $1 million school bond issue to finance an expansion program. That bond expires in July. Total vote on the proposal was 4,707.

In a special election in 1959 for approval of a 50 per cent levy for classroom improvements, the proposal was approved with 3,432 voters participating. A total of 2,153 approved the measure and 1,279 dissented. It was the lightest turnout on a school issue in more than two decades.

The only available registration figures, those compiled for the Nov. 8 Presidential election, show 5,256 eligible voters in Grant District, 2,647 in Clay, and 14,443 in Butler, with 49 independents.

The present rates that would be extended for 20 years if the bond issue is approved are Class I property, 10½ cents on each $100 in assessed valuation; Class II, 21 cents, and Classes III and IV, 42 cents.

The new buildings were designed by Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects. Sketches of the proposed new schools have been made available for the public at the various county schools and at meetings of civic groups.

The board's statement on Tuesday's election said in part:

"A vote to continue the present building bond issue, and to enlarge it sufficiently to carry out our present plans and needs in our schools for the present and for the future, will give Hancock County not only fire resistant buildings of modern design, but will permit our school authorities to present and offer to our boys and girls a school program in curriculum equal to the best in the United States.

"West Virginia schools have long been considered below the national average, but Hancock County has improved its schools the past several years both in quality of teachers and in school room equipment, until now we are a model for the other counties and are being studied and copied in many parts of the state.

"We five members of the Board of Education are all solidly behind this new school program for Hancock County. We realize the needs that are forever growing for more school rooms and better teaching facilities.

"We want to see Hancock County schools continue to move forward in every possible way, to give the boys and girls the very best in elementary, and high school opportunities in education. We want to see that they are safely transported, we want to see them in fire resistant modern school rooms, with the best possible teaching methods.

"Since nearly one-half of our school population are bus pupils, a hot lunch program has long been my wish, as it has been with all board members," Dr. W. Dale Williams, president, noted.

"This new school program will put a hot lunch in every school in the county. If it saves the parents a nickle a day, it will pay for the money it will cost them for the bond issue."

"The average property owner is paying and will continue to pay between $6 and $7 a year to pay off this renewal. We will have a small, re-assessment raise in property values each year for the next three years, but this will not effect the payments on the bond issue.

"As the assessment goes up on my property and yours, the rate will go down, this to keep the yearly payment the same or nearly the same," Dr. Williams said.

"The taxes in the county for schools, the regular school levy of $9 per thousand valuation, and the bond for building, together are only a little over $11. On both sides of us, the taxes for schools are five times that figure in many places. Taxes are necessary, because they pay for such services as fire and police protection, health and hospitals, sanitation needs and most important the education of our youth.

"Vote intelligently at elections, especially those involving tax rates and bonding. And urge others to base their views on facts, not rumors," the board's statement said.

The statement was signed by Dr. Williams and Robert Miller and Mrs. Mary Swartz of Weirton, Fred Allison of Newell and John Boyd of Chester, members.

official. A special showing of "High Noon" was scheduled. Remarked the Soviet member of the film jury: "His death is a great loss for the film world."

Even the Communist press paid tribute. In Paris, the Humanite headlined: "America loses cowboy number one." Rome's L'Unita proclaimed: "A great actor disappears." The major Yugoslavian daily, Borba, said: "Gary Cooper will survive his physical death because he was one of the best of the great film creators."

Spent with cancer, Cooper died at 12:27 p.m. Saturday. "He had great will to live or he might not have survived that long," said his physician, Rex Kennamer.

Cooper's wife Veronica and their daughter Maria, 24, were at the bedside in the Holmby Hills home, along with the actor's priest, the Right Rev. Msgr. Daniel Sullivan. Also present was Cooper's mother, Alice Cooper, 87.

After leaving Chiang, Johnson drove to Taipei's City Hall to address more than 2,000 students. A crowd of 25,000 listened by loudspeaker outside.

Johnson told the students "Communists say to the youth of Asia and the world that young people should go into the streets as mobs destroying order, undermining peace and attacking free institutions."

"But free men," he said, "offer the youth of Asia a far different call. It is a call to go into the fields and help the farmer improve his lot, go among the sick and tend the needs of babies and the aged, go among children and teach."

A pilot from the East Liverpool Thunderbolt Flying Club and another member, both in a Stinson four - seater, aided in the search Sunday afternoon. The aircraft, piloted by Howard Hinton, searched the Beaver area toward Harrisburg.

Maj. Cecil Baer, commanding officer of CAP Squadron 1500 at Johnstown, said a Cessna 172 was reported seen flying north of Somerset about 9 a. m. Friday. The area long has been known as a "graveyard" of planes. CAP officials also said a small plane was in radio contact with the Johnstown airport Friday morning. It was not learned whether it was Camp's plane.

An Allegheny Airlines pilot reported seeing wreckage on Bald Eagle Mountain near Lock Haven. Three planes were sent there, but reported finding nothing. The search is expected to be in that area today.

Alabama

No arrests were made in Anniston or Birmingham.

The "freedom riders" — eight white persons and eight Negroes —are members of the Congress of Racial Equality. They are riding regularly scheduled buses through the South to test racial segregation.

This was their first encounter with mass violence.

The group divided in Atlanta for the trip through Alabama, nine taking a Greyhound bus and seven boarding a Trailways bus, all headed for Birmingham.

Both buses ran into trouble at Anniston, about 50 miles from the Georgia line.

When the Greyhound bus arrived there, the bus station was closed and an angry crowd of about 200 white persons milled around.

Members of the crowd smashed some bus windows with bars and lengths of pipe.

The driver headed for Birmingham, but six miles outside Anniston the bus had a flat tire. A crowd of white men who had followed in cars sought to board it.

They were blocked by Alabama state investigator, Ell M. Cowling, who had ridden the bus from Atlanta on a tip.

A fire bomb—believed to have been a soft drink bottle containing gasoline—was thrown through a window of the bus.

Highway patrolmen, summoned by a passing motorist, fired pistols into the air to disperse the crowd. The passengers got off before the bus was destroyed by flames.

The Trailways bus left Atlanta about an hour after the Greyhound bus. Dr. Walter Bergman, 61, a former Michigan State University professor and a member of the CORE group, said about eight or ten white men had boarded the bus in Atlanta.

He said they beat several members of the group, including himself, at Anniston. When the bus reached Birmingham, 60 miles west of Anniston, a crowd of white men was waiting.

Two members of the CORE group, a Negro and a white man, were beaten when they headed for the white waiting room.

Outside, on the bus docks, white men using lengths of pipe as bludgeons, mauled others, including a Negro bystander.

basis of the British-French compromise.

Informants said the Kennedy administration felt it was more important to test the sincerity of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's professed willingness to agree to a neutral policy for Laos than to allow the proceedings to break down on a question of representation.

But the conference here may never deal with the political and governmental aspects of the crisis in Laos since discussions that may lead to the formation of a neutral government now are under way in the Indochinese kingdom itself.

The three top leaders of the rival forces are not in Geneva, preferring to remain at home in the hope some sort of political settlement can be achieved there. If they reach a settlement on the spot, then representatives of an eventually unified government might come to Geneva to represent the country as fully privileged participants.

The conference here would devote itself primarily to matters affecting the international aspects of the problem—such as the matters of arms control and international supervision of the country's neutrality.

Agreement had been reached Sunday by the big powers on a formula to seat all three rival Laotian groups as observers, but not participants.

Informants said the Kennedy administration felt it was more important to test the sincerity of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's professed willingness to agree to a neutral policy for Laos than to allow the proceedings to break down on a question of representation.

But the conference here may never deal with the political and governmental aspects of the crisis in Laos since discussions that may lead to the formation of a neutral government now are under way in the Indochinese kingdom itself.

The three top leaders of the rival forces are not in Geneva, preferring to remain at home in the hope some sort of political settlement can be achieved there. If they reach a settlement on the spot, then representatives of an eventually unified government might come to Geneva to represent the country as fully privileged participants.

The conference here would devote itself primarily to matters affecting the international aspects of the problem—such as the matters of arms control and international supervision of the country's neutrality.

Agreement had been reached Sunday by the big powers on a formula to seat all three rival Laotian groups as observers, but not participants.

Representation Unbalanced

U.S. Rural Areas Control Vote In State Legislature

By The Associated Press

If you want your vote in state legislative affairs to weigh more, move to the country.

The reason? Most state legislatures now are dominated by rural senators and representatives.

In theory, every state but Maryland must reapportion all or part of the legislature periodically. This prohibits the focus of power anywhere but with the majority of the people.

But in practice, theory is shelved and rural lawmakers keep a firm hold on their power.

That disfranchisement is common may be seen in this sampling.

Alabama's Bullock County has 13,000 citizens and two representatives. But the more than 50,000 Houston County citizens have only one.

Less than one-third of Iowa's population controls the legislature.

Some Wyoming counties with three legislators have fewer residents than other counties with but one.

Four urban Utah counties claim three-quarters of the state's population, pay 65 per cent of the taxes, but have only 44 per cent of the Senate seats and 54 per cent of the House.

And Perry County, Arkansas, boasts 4,900 residents and one representative, while the eight Pulaski County representatives average 31,250 constituents each.

In all but a handful of states, reapportionment is a vexing problem. And its solutions range from acceptance to agitation to reform.

Maryland's legislative districts can be changed only with approval by voters and there are no deadlines for changes. The last boundary changes followed a 1950 referendum.

The partition of Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama is the same now as it was a half-century ago. Vermont's 246-member House—second largest in the nation—has been unchanged numerically since its first seating in 1793. And Connecticut's Senate is the same in number now as in 1874.

Reapportionment of all or part of the Iowa, Ohio and Arkansas legislatures is virtually impossible because of so-called "freezing" clauses which permanently fix district boundaries.

Small hope is held for overhauling the assemblies of Kentucky, Utah, Vermont, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Wyoming — states where the lawmakers maintain a passive attitude.

Indiana's legislature was last realigned in 1921, despite a constitutional provision for a census and reapportionment every six years. An Indianapolis judge ruled recently that all future acts of the legislature will be invalid unless the constitution is obeyed, but there is considerable doubt the ruling can be enforced.

The rural-urban antagonism is compounded in Vermont, New York and Connecticut by partisan politics.

But progress is being made. Partial equalizing recently occurred in eight states. Change is under study in 11 more.

Floridans will vote soon on a new districting plan (a similar measure was voted down by a 5-4 margin two years ago). In Michigan a constitutional convention this fall probably will rework that state's apportionment clause.

Governors in Georgia, California, Alabama and Utah are taking a personal role in seeking equalization of the governmental formulas in their states.

Elsewhere, individuals are taking matters to the courts.

A Mississippian refuses to pay his state tax, saying he isn't fairly represented. He claims that no legislative reapportionment since 1890 means taxation without fair representation.

A Kansas attorney has asked the courts to declare all legislative acts unconstitutional. He says the Kansas government has gone unchanged for so long it no longer reflects the wishes of the majority.

Most publicized of current reapportionment controversies is that in Tennessee. The U. S. Supreme Court is considering a case in which city voters claim they aren't being equitably represented.

There has been no reallocation of the Tennessee General Assembly since 1901. The plaintiffs argue that city dwellers are being discriminated against.

The state claims a federal tribunal has no right to decide the issue, that an order to reapportion would amount to usurping state's rights.

2 Prisoners Kill Warden, Escape In New England

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A manhunt was on today for two accused killers who shot their way to freedom by killing the warden of Middlesex County jail Sunday.

Police described the pair as armed and dangerous. Officers were told to shoot to kill if necessary.

The fugitives were identified as Edgar W. Cook, 48, Brookline, and Norman Porter, 21, Woburn.

The victim was David S. Robinson, 53, head of the jail nearly 10 years. Robinson accepted Sunday duty so his deputies could have Mothers Day off.

Cook was to have gone on trial today in Middlesex County Superior Court for murder in the killing of a Cambridge policeman last Sept. 3. Patrolman Lawrence W. Gorman, 35, father of three, was shot down when he surprised two men attempting to break into a restaurant.

Porter also was awaiting trial on a murder charge. He was accused of killing John Piggott, 22, of Lynn, a clerk, during an attemped robbery of a clothing store 10 miles north of Boston, last Sept. 29.

The pine tree is the principal source of turpentine.

Pope Plans Document On Social Living

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII will issue a major encyclical soon giving the Roman Catholic Church's position on modern social problems.

The pontiff told an assembly of 100,000 workers from Italy and some 60 other nations Sunday that his document will outline "a magnificent program of Christian life and apostolic social activity," and "A living in Christ."

The new encyclical will mark the 70th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's famous encyclical "Rerum Novarum (Of New Things)". That papal letter of 1891 stated the Catholic position on labor, wealth and social justice. Along with "Quadragesimo Anno (Forty Years Later)", it is still a basic document of the church's teaching in the social field.

Pope John said his encyclical would supplement Pope Leo's and would deal with "the new, grave and at times perilous problems of our epoch." He said the problem of underdeveloped countries "is justly called the problem of the modern epoch."

Publication of the encyclical had been expected today, the anniversary of "Rerum Novarum." But the Pope said it would be delayed several weeks so the Catholic hierarchy abroad could receive the original Latin text simultaneously.

Pope John described briefly the problems to be treated in his encyclical—"above all, and precisely, those concerning relations between private enterprise and the intervention of public powers in the economic field."

Medal Proposed In Congress To Honor Bob Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Moments enriched by humor are moments free from hate and conflict, and therefore valued by mankind," said a Senate resolution today proposing a gold medal for comedian Bob Hope.

The resolution, prepared for introduction by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., on behalf of 97 senators, cited Hope's "countless miles of travel around the globe" to entertain American troops.

This phase of the rapid fire comedian's life already is well known to Americans, particularly those who served overseas during World War II and in Korea.

"Another less known side of Hope's life," Symington said, is that "for many years, quietly but consistently, this American has been engaged in a career of good works."

The British-born entertainer, 58 in two weeks, attempted to enlist after the United States entered World War II. He was told he could serve better as an entertainer to build morale.

Hope took the advice literally and traveled more than 1 million miles to entertain servicemen all the way from North Africa to the islands of the Pacific.

His book on the wartime travels, "I Never Left Home," sold more than 1.6 million copies and earned about $175,000 which was turned over to charity.

During World War II he was the only entertainer among 50 persons voted into the Living Hall of Fame at the Smithsonian Institution.

Degree Team Honored

LISBON — Fifty-four attended a dinner Sunday at Unity Grange Hall honoring the Columbiana County Grange first degree team, which won a state contest April 29 at Millersport. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pozenel were presented gifts for their work with the group. The 28-member county team will attend the state Grange convention Oct. 23 at Akron to exemplify the first degree on delegates.

At Chester Church

2 Scouts Are Honored

The God and Country Award, sponsored by the Protestant Committee on Scouting, was presented to Larry Werkheiser, left, and William Hobbs during the worship service Sunday at the Chester Westminster United Presbyterian Church.

Each youth is 16 and each is a junior at Chester High School. Werkheiser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Werkheiser, 835 Plutus Ave., and Hobbs the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, 346 Indiana Ave.

They are members of Troop 27, which is sponsored by the church. Ralph Hobbs is the Scoutmaster. The youths are the first to receive the God and Country Award from the church and are believed to be the first in Chester so honored.

Eugene Seeley, district Scout commissioner, introduced the boys and their mothers to the congregation and pointed out how the two Scouts had worked with their pastor, the Rev. William Claghorn, for three years in earning their award.

The Scouts completed three phases of requirements covering five fields of emphasis suggested by the United Christian Youth Movement. They are Christian faith, Christian witness, Christian world outreach, Christian citizenship and Christian fellowship.

Rev. Claghorn read a letter of congratulations from the Board of Christian Education of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., stating that Larry and William were two of 2,000 boys in the U.P. church to win the award this year.

The minister, as part of the Mother's Day service, called upon their mothers to pin the awards on the boys' uniforms. He expressed the hope the Scouts "would continue their desire to learn more about the church and that they had the responsibility of sharing what they learned with others".

Work Ending In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—With the general appropriations bill now in the hands of the Senate, the 104th General Assembly is on the downhill slope. Chances are the session will end in mid-June.

Obviously, now in a hurry to go home for good, this legislature is not going to accomplish anything sensational.

It apparently is going to wind up as a hold-the-line operation. Republicans are going to hold the line against increased taxes. Democrats, because of the thin edge the Republicans hold in votes, are going to hold the line against any modification of social legislation, particularly in the unemployment benefits field.

Apparently, three or four weeks hence, the Republican Senate is going to send back to the Republican House a budget bill calling for about $10 million less in state spending in the next two years than the big money bill approved by the House last Thursday. That bill appropriated $2 billion, just about $26 million less than the amount asked by Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

As soon as the House concurs in the Senate amendments to the budget bill, look for the lawmakers to cut and run for home, leaving any unfinished business to be completed by the 105th General Assembly in 1963.

If everything works out according to plan—including the return to duty of Sen. John Corrigan, a Cleveland Democrat, who has been ailing in recent weeks—the legislature may get around to acting on DiSalle's veto of a bill which would take $15 million out of Ohio Highway Department funds and give the money to local governments for highway construction and maintenance.

It is a Republican policy measure designed to augment the meager highway funds of some cities, counties and townships. DiSalle and his highway director, Everett S. Preston, oppose it on grounds it would rob the Highway Department of money it needs to match federal contributions, especially on interstate highway construction.

The House, with Democratic votes from Cleveland, apparently is in position to override the veto. The question is in the Senate where Republicans need the help of three Democratic votes to override.

Despite the views of the leadership, most lawmakers appear to feel that the appropriations bill and the veto on the highway aid to local governments are the only major issues before the legislature.

When they are wrapped up, one way or the other, the lawmakers probably will scatter to the four winds, never to be assembled again, barring a major state issue in a special session.

So the legislators start their 20th work week late today. It won't be long now.

GETTIN' HITCHED?...SEE YOUR PRUDENTIAL AGENT

Lots of young people "get hitched" these days on faith and a shoestring, though the first years aren't easy on the pocketbook. There's home buying, saving for the children's education, maybe investing in a business, and plenty of other expenses.

For young husbands-on-the-way-up, whose incomes haven't yet caught up with their ability, Prudential offers a very special policy—the Modified Life 5-10 Plan—which scales the premiums to match the family's economic progress. For the first five years you pay only 50% of the ultimate premium. For the next five you pay only 75%. Thereafter you pay the whole premium.

But from the very first moment your family is protected, . . and you enjoy peace of mind. So if you're "gettin' hitched"—or recently have—ask about the Modified 5-10 Plan.

Pope Plans Document On Social Living

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII will issue a major encyclical soon giving the Roman Catholic Church's position on modern social problems.

The pontiff told an assembly of 100,000 workers from Italy and some 60 other nations Sunday that his document will outline "a magnificent program of Christian life and apostolic social activity," and "A living in Christ."

The new encyclical will mark the 70th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's famous encyclical "Rerum Novarum (Of New Things)". That papal letter of 1891 stated the Catholic position on labor, wealth and social justice. Along with "Quadragesimo Anno (Forty Years Later)", it is still a basic document of the church's teaching in the social field.

Pope John said his encyclical would supplement Pope Leo's and would deal with "the new, grave and at times perilous problems of our epoch." He said the problem of underdeveloped countries "is justly called the problem of the modern epoch."

Publication of the encyclical had been expected today, the anniversary of "Rerum Novarum." But the Pope said it would be delayed several weeks so the Catholic hierarchy abroad could receive the original Latin text simultaneously.

Pope John described briefly the problems to be treated in his encyclical—"above all, and precisely, those concerning relations between private enterprise and the intervention of public powers in the economic field."

Medal Proposed In Congress To Honor Bob Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Moments enriched by humor are moments free from hate and conflict, and therefore valued by mankind," said a Senate resolution today proposing a gold medal for comedian Bob Hope.

The resolution, prepared for introduction by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., on behalf of 97 senators, cited Hope's "countless miles of travel around the globe" to entertain American troops.

This phase of the rapid fire comedian's life already is well known to Americans, particularly those who served overseas during World War II and in Korea.

"Another less known side of Hope's life," Symington said, is that "for many years, quietly but consistently, this American has been engaged in a career of good works."

The British-born entertainer, 58 in two weeks, attempted to enlist after the United States entered World War II. He was told he could serve better as an entertainer to build morale.

Hope took the advice literally and traveled more than 1 million miles to entertain servicemen all the way from North Africa to the islands of the Pacific.

His book on the wartime travels, "I Never Left Home," sold more than 1.6 million copies and earned about $175,000 which was turned over to charity.

During World War II he was the only entertainer among 50 persons voted into the Living Hall of Fame at the Smithsonian Institution.

Degree Team Honored

LISBON — Fifty-four attended a dinner Sunday at Unity Grange Hall honoring the Columbiana County Grange first degree team, which won a state contest April 29 at Millersport. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pozenel were presented gifts for their work with the group. The 28-member county team will attend the state Grange convention Oct. 23 at Akron to exemplify the first degree on delegates.

At Chester Church

2 Scouts Are Honored

The God and Country Award, sponsored by the Protestant Committee on Scouting, was presented to Larry Werkheiser, left, and William Hobbs during the worship service Sunday at the Chester Westminster United Presbyterian Church.

Each youth is 16 and each is a junior at Chester High School. Werkheiser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Werkheiser, 835 Plutus Ave., and Hobbs the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, 346 Indiana Ave.

They are members of Troop 27, which is sponsored by the church. Ralph Hobbs is the Scoutmaster. The youths are the first to receive the God and Country Award from the church and are believed to be the first in Chester so honored.

Eugene Seeley, district Scout commissioner, introduced the boys and their mothers to the congregation and pointed out how the two Scouts had worked with their pastor, the Rev. William Claghorn, for three years in earning their award.

The Scouts completed three phases of requirements covering five fields of emphasis suggested by the United Christian Youth Movement. They are Christian faith, Christian witness, Christian world outreach, Christian citizenship and Christian fellowship.

Rev. Claghorn read a letter of congratulations from the Board of Christian Education of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., stating that Larry and William were two of 2,000 boys in the U.P. church to win the award this year.

The minister, as part of the Mother's Day service, called upon their mothers to pin the awards on the boys' uniforms. He expressed the hope the Scouts "would continue their desire to learn more about the church and that they had the responsibility of sharing what they learned with others".

Work Ending In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—With the general appropriations bill now in the hands of the Senate, the 104th General Assembly is on the downhill slope. Chances are the session will end in mid-June.

Obviously, now in a hurry to go home for good, this legislature is not going to accomplish anything sensational.

It apparently is going to wind up as a hold-the-line operation. Republicans are going to hold the line against increased taxes. Democrats, because of the thin edge the Republicans hold in votes, are going to hold the line against any modification of social legislation, particularly in the unemployment benefits field.

Apparently, three or four weeks hence, the Republican Senate is going to send back to the Republican House a budget bill calling for about $10 million less in state spending in the next two years than the big money bill approved by the House last Thursday. That bill appropriated $2 billion, just about $26 million less than the amount asked by Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

As soon as the House concurs in the Senate amendments to the budget bill, look for the lawmakers to cut and run for home, leaving any unfinished business to be completed by the 105th General Assembly in 1963.

If everything works out according to plan—including the return to duty of Sen. John Corrigan, a Cleveland Democrat, who has been ailing in recent weeks—the legislature may get around to acting on DiSalle's veto of a bill which would take $15 million out of Ohio Highway Department funds and give the money to local governments for highway construction and maintenance.

It is a Republican policy measure designed to augment the meager highway funds of some cities, counties and townships. DiSalle and his highway director, Everett S. Preston, oppose it on grounds it would rob the Highway Department of money it needs to match federal contributions, especially on interstate highway construction.

The House, with Democratic votes from Cleveland, apparently is in position to override the veto. The question is in the Senate where Republicans need the help of three Democratic votes to override.

Despite the views of the leadership, most lawmakers appear to feel that the appropriations bill and the veto on the highway aid to local governments are the only major issues before the legislature.

When they are wrapped up, one way or the other, the lawmakers probably will scatter to the four winds, never to be assembled again, barring a major state issue in a special session.

So the legislators start their 20th work week late today. It won't be long now.

Micheals was cited after his car struck the rear of a stopped car operated by Robert H. Frederick, 64, of Ruth St. at the intersection of Pennsylvania Ave. and Unity St.

Ronald Fetty, 819 Bank St., was fined $5 and costs for crashing a traffic signal at E. 3rd St. and Broadway at 1:25 p. m. Sunday. Fetty also was reprimanded by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff for being sarcastic with Lt. Clyde Boso, the arresting officer.

Intruder Gets Nothing In Burglary Of Station

The Hilltop service station on the Midland-Fairview Rd. in Ohio Township was broken into Saturday about 9:40 p. m., Constable Bernard Zlatovich said.

He said a passing motorist reported seeing a man hiding between some cars at the station. Zlatovich investigated and said a couple cans of car polish were taken, but were dropped outside.

He said entrance was gained via a window and the intruder left by unlocking a door.

Police searched woods nearby but found no one. The station is operated by Mike Vojnovich of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1.

Yankees Sweep Twin Bill From Tigers To Split Series

Berra Wins One In 11th With Pinch

By The Associated Press

Yogi Berra's pinch single in the 11th inning of the opener and a six-straight single attack in the first inning of the second game gave the New York Yankees a 5-4 and 8-6 sweep of a doubleheader from Detroit.

The twin victories Sunday enabled the Yankees to whittle the Tigers' American League lead to 2½ games.

Minnesota moved into third place, past Baltimore, edging Los Angeles 4-3 while Cleveland was taking two from the Orioles, 1-0 in 15 innings and 6-4. Chicago and Kansas City split a twin bill, the White Sox winning the first game 6-1 and the A's taking the second 5-3. Washington defeated the Boston Red Sox twice, 3-0 and 2-1.

Washington's sweep gave the Senators the series from the Red Sox, three games to one. McClain yielded five hits for his fourth victory. Daniels pitched a three-hitter for his second triumph.

McClain, picked up in the minor league draft for $25,000, retired the first 16 batters as he became the first Washington pitcher to win four games. He scored what proved to be the winning run himself in the third inning. He doubled off Billy Muffett and came around on Billy Klaus' single and an infield out.

Yogi Berra's bases loaded single in the 11th inning of the first game and a five-run first inning in the second game gave the New York Yankees a 5-4 and 8-6 sweep of a doubleheader with Detroit. Jim Coates, in relief, was credited with both victories.

Detroit, trailing 4-1, tied the first game score in the ninth, scoring three runs but in the 11th, Mickey Mantle singled and scored the winning run on Berra's pinch hit.

In the second game the first six Yankees to face Jim Bunning singled, providing the winners with a 5-0 lead. Detroit made it close on homers by Rocky Colavito, Dick Brown and Charley Maxwell.

A throwing error by Baltimore shortstop Jerry Adair provided the Indians with an unearned run in the 15th inning to end the longest game in the major leagues this season. Willie Kirkland's three-run homer won the second game for Cleveland.

The White Sox and Athletics traded victories on two-run homers. In the first game, Luis Aparicio, Wes Covington and Jim Landis each homered with a man on base to help Bob Shaw register his third victory. In the nightcap, catcher Joe Pignatano homered with a mate aboard to give Joe Nuxhall his first A's victory.

Bob Allison's sacrifice fly scored the winning run in the eighth after the Twins had scored the tying run on a bunt, two fielder's choices, a walk and three errors.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting — Ron Santo, Cubs, drove in two runs, including the tie-breaker with a single as the Cubs came from behind to defeat the Dodgers 10-8 in 11 innings.

Pitching — Joe McClain and Bennie Daniels, Senators. McClain pitched a five-hitter and Daniels a three-hitter as the Senators swept their first doubleheader of the season, beating the Red Sox 3-0 and 2-1.

Even Tried Chewing

DENVER (AP) — Mark Freeman, commenting about his efforts to stick in the major leagues as a pitcher with the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs, commented:

"I tried chewing tobacco, just like the big leaguers do. That didn't work, either."

Freeman sells investments in Denver in the off season.

Cleveland Pulls 1st Twin-Killing Of '61

Perry, Funk Go 15 For 1-0 Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Still savoring their first doubleheader triumph of the season, earned with top-drawer pitching and the long-awaited slugging of Willie Kirkland, the Cleveland Indians came to Boston to open a three-game series today.

Jim Perry and Frank Funk hurled the first game shutout over Baltimore Sunday as the Indians pushed across an unearned run in the 15th inning of the longest game of the major league campaign. The 1-0 victory was posted on Jerry Adair's throwing error—and the alert running of John Romano.

The 6-4 second game win was a different story. Trailing 3-2 in the seventh inning, Cleveland tied the count on Johnny Temple's third walk of the game and singles by Tito Francona and Vic Power. Then Kirkland, who drove in a first inning run, blasted his first American League homer, a three-run shot that cleared the right field fence at the 365-foot marker.

Barry Latman (2-0) pitched 3 2-3 innings of sparkling relief after Gary Bell was chased in the sixth frame when the Orioles counted three runs on four hits. One was Dick Williams' solo homer. Latman gave up only two hits, including a two-out homer in the ninth to Whitey Herzog.

Kirkland, fully recovered from his bout with the flu, admitted this was the longest he's ever waited to hit a home run. "It's been a long time coming so it felt that much better," said Kirkland. "I sure hope this is only the beginning."

Jim Grant (1-0) was set to face Boston's Ike Delock (1-1) today.

But Dykes already is looking ahead to next weekend's big series in Cleveland with the New York Yankees. "It'll be Jim Perry and Gary Bell," said the manager, meaning those two will face the American League champs Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

Funk (3-2), Cleveland's ace bullpen man who usually comes in for short stints, said he never had pitched seven innings in a relief role. He said he switched to a slow curve when his fast ball began losing its zip in the late stages of the opener.

The unusual finish was heartbreaking for the Orioles. Billy Hoeft (9 innings), Hoyt Wilhelm (9) and Jack Fisher (3 2-3) did the pitching for Baltimore. Romano opened the 15th by drawing a walk. Then, after Woodie Held fanned, Bubba Phillips smacked his third single of the game, sending Romano to second.

Bob Hale pinch hit for Funk and banged the ball back through the box. Pitcher Fisher touched the ball and deflected it to second baseman Ron Hanse, who flipped to Adair for the force. Adair relayed to first in an attempt for the double play which would have ended the inning.

But the throw was in the dirt and got by Walt Dropo. Romano barely made it across with the only run of the tense contest.

Young Hunt Slows Bucs; Frisco Wins

By The Associated Press

A walk to pinch hitter Matty Alou with the bases full in the ninth inning forced home the run that gave the San Francisco Giants an 8-7 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

The victory, coupled with Chicago's 10-8 triumph over Los Angeles in 11 innings enabled the Giants to open up a full game lead over the Dodgers in the tight National League race.

Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 4-1 and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 6-4 in the other league games Sunday.

The Cubs snapped an eight-game losing streak, scoring two runs in each of the eighth, ninth and 11th innings to overcome an 8-4 deficit. Earlier, they had trailed Don Drysdale 5-0. Don Elston, in relief picked up his fifth triumph when Ron Santo singled in the tie-breaking run in the 11th. Dick Farrell was the loser in relief.

Norm Larker, Charlie Neal, Tommy Davis, Ron Fairly and Drysdale homered for the Dodgers to give them 46 for the season. No other team is even close. The Dodgers also made an error, their 42nd of the season. That's also the most.

After a homer by Milwaukee's Lee Maye in the top of the ninth had tied the score at 8-8, Braves pitcher Ron Piche walked pinch hitter Matty Alou with the bases loaded in the bottom half of the inning to give the Giants the series, two games to one. Earlier, Ed Mathews of the Braves, Orlando Cepeda and Jimmy Davenport of the Giants, had homered.

Rookie pitcher Ken Hunt gave up four hits and one run in seven innings and doubled home a run himself as he registered his third victory in four decisions for Cincinnati. Bob Friend, a four-game winner, was the loser for Pittsburgh.

Run-scoring singles by Clay Dalrymple and Lee Walls snapped a 4-4 tie and gave the Phillies their second straight victory over the Cardinals. Chris Short, in relief was the winner and Lindy McDaniel was charged with the loss.

Knick Coach Back In NBA As Player

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Braun was right back where he started from today—toiling as a player for another coach—and he's happy about it.

A week ago today, Braun was given his unconditional release as coach of the New York Knickerbockers, his only employers since he broke in as a rookie during the 1947-48 National Basketball Association season.

Sunday night, he signed as a player for the world champion Boston Celtics for next season. The contract was for one year and no terms were announced.

"When I retired myself to devote all my time to coaching the Knicks," said Braun, 33, "I figured I bowed out about five years too soon.

"I'm going to keep playing—with the Celts, I hope—until I feel I can't do the team any more good. I wouldn't want to place a limit on how long I'll go on, but the fact that I signed a one-year contract doesn't mean I intend to play only one year."

Announcer's Fault

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Bridges, reserve infielder with the Los Angeles Angels, says he didn't come by his nickname in a natural way.

"I got it at Greenville, N.C., when I played there in 1948," says Rocky. "The park announcer said he couldn't call me Everett or La Mar Bridges so he called me Rocky."

YOGI BERRA (left) and Jim Coates congratulate each other after leading New York to a 5-4 win in the first game of a doubleheader with Detroit Sunday at Yankee Stadium. Their work also helped the Yankees to take the second game, 8-6. Coates pitched six innings of air-tight relief to gain credit for both victories. Yogi's pinch single in the 11th inning won the first game and he added two more hits in the second contest. (UPI Telephoto)

Yankees Sweep Twin Bill From Tigers To Split Series

Berra Wins One In 11th With Pinch

By The Associated Press

Yogi Berra's pinch single in the 11th inning of the opener and a six-straight single attack in the first inning of the second game gave the New York Yankees a 5-4 and 8-6 sweep of a doubleheader from Detroit.

The twin victories Sunday enabled the Yankees to whittle the Tigers' American League lead to 2½ games.

Minnesota moved into third place, past Baltimore, edging Los Angeles 4-3 while Cleveland was taking two from the Orioles, 1-0 in 15 innings and 6-4. Chicago and Kansas City split a twin bill, the White Sox winning the first game 6-1 and the A's taking the second 5-3. Washington defeated the Boston Red Sox twice, 3-0 and 2-1.

Washington's sweep gave the Senators the series from the Red Sox, three games to one. McClain yielded five hits for his fourth victory. Daniels pitched a three-hitter for his second triumph.

McClain, picked up in the minor league draft for $25,000, retired the first 16 batters as he became the first Washington pitcher to win four games. He scored what proved to be the winning run himself in the third inning. He doubled off Billy Muffett and came around on Billy Klaus' single and an infield out.

Yogi Berra's bases loaded single in the 11th inning of the first game and a five-run first inning in the second game gave the New York Yankees a 5-4 and 8-6 sweep of a doubleheader with Detroit. Jim Coates, in relief, was credited with both victories.

Detroit, trailing 4-1, tied the first game score in the ninth, scoring three runs but in the 11th. Mickey Mantle singled and scored the winning run on Berra's pinch hit.

In the second game the first six Yankees to face Jim Bunning singled, providing the winners with a 5-0 lead. Detroit made it close on homers by Rocky Colavito, Dick Brown and Charley Maxwell.

A throwing error by Baltimore shortstop Jerry Adair provided the Indians with an unearned run in the 15th inning to end the longest game in the major leagues this season. Willie Kirkland's three-run homer won the second game for Cleveland.

The White Sox and Athletics traded victories on two-run homers. In the first game, Luis Aparicio, Wes Covington and Jim Landis each homered with a man on base to help Bob Shaw register his third victory. In the nightcap, catcher Joe Pignatano homered with a mate aboard to give Joe Nuxhall his first A's victory.

Bob Allison's sacrifice fly scored the winning run in the eighth after the Twins had scored the tying run on a bunt, two fielder's choices, a walk and three errors.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting — Ron Santo, Cubs, drove in two runs, including the tie-breaker with a single as the Cubs came from behind to defeat the Dodgers 10-8 in 11 innings.

Pitching — Joe McClain and Bennie Daniels, Senators. McClain pitched a five-hitter and Daniels a three-hitter as the Senators swept their first doubleheader of the season, beating the Red Sox 3-0 and 2-1.

Even Tried Chewing

DENVER (AP) — Mark Freeman, commenting about his efforts to stick in the major leagues as a pitcher with the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs, commented:

"I tried chewing tobacco, just like the big leaguers do. That didn't work, either."

Freeman sells investments in Denver in the off season.

Knick Coach Back In NBA As Player

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Braun was right back where he started from today—toiling as a player for another coach—and he's happy about it.

A week ago today, Braun was given his unconditional release as coach of the New York Knickerbockers, his only employers since he broke in as a rookie during the 1947-48 National Basketball Association season.

Sunday night, he signed as a player for the world champion Boston Celtics for next season. The contract was for one year and no terms were announced.

"When I retired myself to devote all my time to coaching the Knicks," said Braun, 33, "I figured I bowed out about five years too soon.

"I'm going to keep playing—with the Celts, I hope—until I feel I can't do the team any more good. I wouldn't want to place a limit on how long I'll go on, but the fact that I signed a one-year contract doesn't mean I intend to play only one year."

Announcer's Fault

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky Bridges, reserve infielder with the Los Angeles Angels, says he didn't come by his nickname in a natural way.

"I got it at Greenville, N.C., when I played there in 1948," says Rocky. "The park announcer said he couldn't call me Everett or La Mar Bridges so he called me Rocky."

Cleveland Pulls 1st Twin-Killing Of '61

Perry, Funk Go 15 For 1-0 Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Still savoring their first doubleheader triumph of the season, earned with top-drawer pitching and the long-awaited slugging of Willie Kirkland, the Cleveland Indians came to Boston to open a three-game series today.

Jim Perry and Frank Funk hurled the first game shutout over Baltimore Sunday as the Indians pushed across an unearned run in the 15th inning of the longest game of the major league campaign. The 1-0 victory was posted on Jerry Adair's throwing error—and the alert running of John Romano.

The 6-4 second game win was a different story. Trailing 3-2 in the seventh inning, Cleveland tied the count on Johnny Temple's third walk of the game and singles by Tito Francona and Vic Power. Then Kirkland, who drove in a first inning run, blasted his first American League homer, a three-run shot that cleared the right field fence at the 365-foot marker.

Barry Latman (2-0) pitched 3 2-3 innings of sparkling relief after Gary Bell was chased in the sixth frame when the Orioles counted three runs on four hits. One was Dick Williams' solo homer. Latman gave up only two hits, including a two-out homer in the ninth to Whitey Herzog.

Kirkland, fully recovered from his bout with the flu, admitted this was the longest he's ever waited to hit a home run. "It's been a long time coming so it felt that much better," said Kirkland. "I sure hope this is only the beginning."

Jim Grant (1-0) was set to face Boston's Ike Delock (1-1) today.

But Dykes already is looking ahead to next weekend's big series in Cleveland with the New York Yankees. "It'll be Jim Perry and Gary Bell," said the manager, meaning those two will face the American League champs Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

Funk (3-2), Cleveland's ace bullpen man who usually comes in for short stints, said he never had pitched seven innings in a relief role. He said he switched to a slow curve when his fast ball began losing its zip in the late stages of the opener.

The unusual finish was heartbreaking for the Orioles. Billy Hoeft (9 innings), Hoyt Wilhelm (9) and Jack Fisher (3 2-3) did the pitching for Baltimore. Romano opened the 15th by drawing a walk. Then, after Woodie Held fanned, Bubba Phillips smacked his third single of the game, sending Romano to second.

Bob Hale pinch hit for Funk and banged the ball back through the box. Pitcher Fisher touched the ball and deflected it to second baseman Ron Hanse, who flipped to Adair for the force. Adair relayed to first in an attempt for the double play which would have ended the inning.

But the throw was in the dirt and got by Walt Dropo. Romano barely made it across with the only run of the tense contest.

YOGI BERRA (left) and Jim Coates congratulate each other after leading New York to a 5-4 win in the first game of a doubleheader with Detroit Sunday at Yankee Stadium. Their work also helped the Yankees to take the second game, 8-6. Coates pitched six innings of air-tight relief to gain credit for both victories. Yogi's pinch single in the 11th inning won the first game and he added two more hits in the second contest. (UPI Telephoto)

The East Liverpool entry built up an early 7-1 lead but then had to stave off a late rally by the East Palestine nine.

Cox-Merchants, the defending champs, collected 11 hits as Andrason rotated four pitchers, which gave up a total of 10 hits to East Palestine. Veteran right-hander Dick Chamberlain, the starting hurler, received credit for the victory. Jim Dickey followed Chamberlain to the mound while Jim Burkes and Joe Urich finished up the contest.

Chamberlain helped his own cause with a triple while Dickey smashed a double. Bob Gessford, the leagues' leading hitter, collected two hits along with Andy Lepock and Urich.

Meeks, McGath, and Dunlap stroked two hits each for the losers. Hughes the starting pitcher was checked with the loss.

Sanders, a five-tournament winner in his relatively brief professional career, edged Australian Kel Nagle by one shot. Nagle toured the 7,041-yard Colonial course in 67 strokes to climb from a three-way tie for ninth into the runnerup slot. He picked up $3,500 for second place.

Gene Littler and Arnold Palmer, who also was just a stroke off the pace, fell apart in the final round with miserable 75s. Littler wound up tied with Don Whitt for fourth at 284 and Palmer was all alone in fifth place at 285.

They earned $1,900 and $1,700 respectively.

Tied for seventh at 287 were Doug Ford and Stan Leonard, who won $1,500 each.

Young Hunt Slows Bucs; Frisco Wins

By The Associated Press

A walk to pinch hitter Matty Alou with the bases full in the ninth inning forced home the run that gave the San Francisco Giants an 8-7 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

The victory, coupled with Chicago's 10-8 triumph over Los Angeles in 11 innings enabled the Giants to open up a full game lead over the Dodgers in the tight National League race.

Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 4-1 and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 6-4 in the other league games Sunday.

The Cubs snapped an eight-game losing streak, scoring two runs in each of the eighth, ninth and 11th innings to overcome an 8-4 deficit. Earlier, they had trailed Don Drysdale 5-0. Don Elston, in relief picked up his fifth triumph when Ron Santo singled in the tie-breaking run in the 11th. Dick Farrell was the loser in relief.

Norm Larker, Charlie Neal, Tommy Davis, Ron Fairly and Drysdale homered for the Dodgers to give them 46 for the season. No other team is even close. The Dodgers also made an error, their 42nd of the season. That's also the most.

After a homer by Milwaukee's Lee Maye in the top of the ninth had tied the score at 8-8, Braves pitcher Ron Piche walked pinch hitter Matty Alou with the bases loaded in the bottom half of the inning to give the Giants the series, two games to one. Earlier, Ed Mathews of the Braves, Orlando Cepeda and Jimmy Davenport of the Giants, had homered.

Rookie pitcher Ken Hunt gave up four hits and one run in seven innings and doubled home a run himself as he registered his third victory in four decisions for Cincinnati. Bob Friend, a four-game winner, was the loser for Pittsburgh.

Run-scoring singles by Clay Dalrymple and Lee Walls snapped a 4-4 tie and gave the Phillies their second straight victory over the Cardinals. Chris Short, in relief was the winner and Lindy McDaniel was charged with the loss.

3 North Carolina Cagers Face Charges Of Bribery

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Three North Carolina State College basketball players, including Captain Stan Niewierowski, face trial here June 5 on charges of accepting bribes to shave points or throw games.

Niewierowski was taken into custody Sunday by police in his hometown of Brooklyn, N.Y., and held as a material witness pending arrival of a North Carolina warrant.

The other two, Anton Muehlbauer of Brooklyn and Terry Litchfield of Louisville, Ky., were arrested over the weekend.

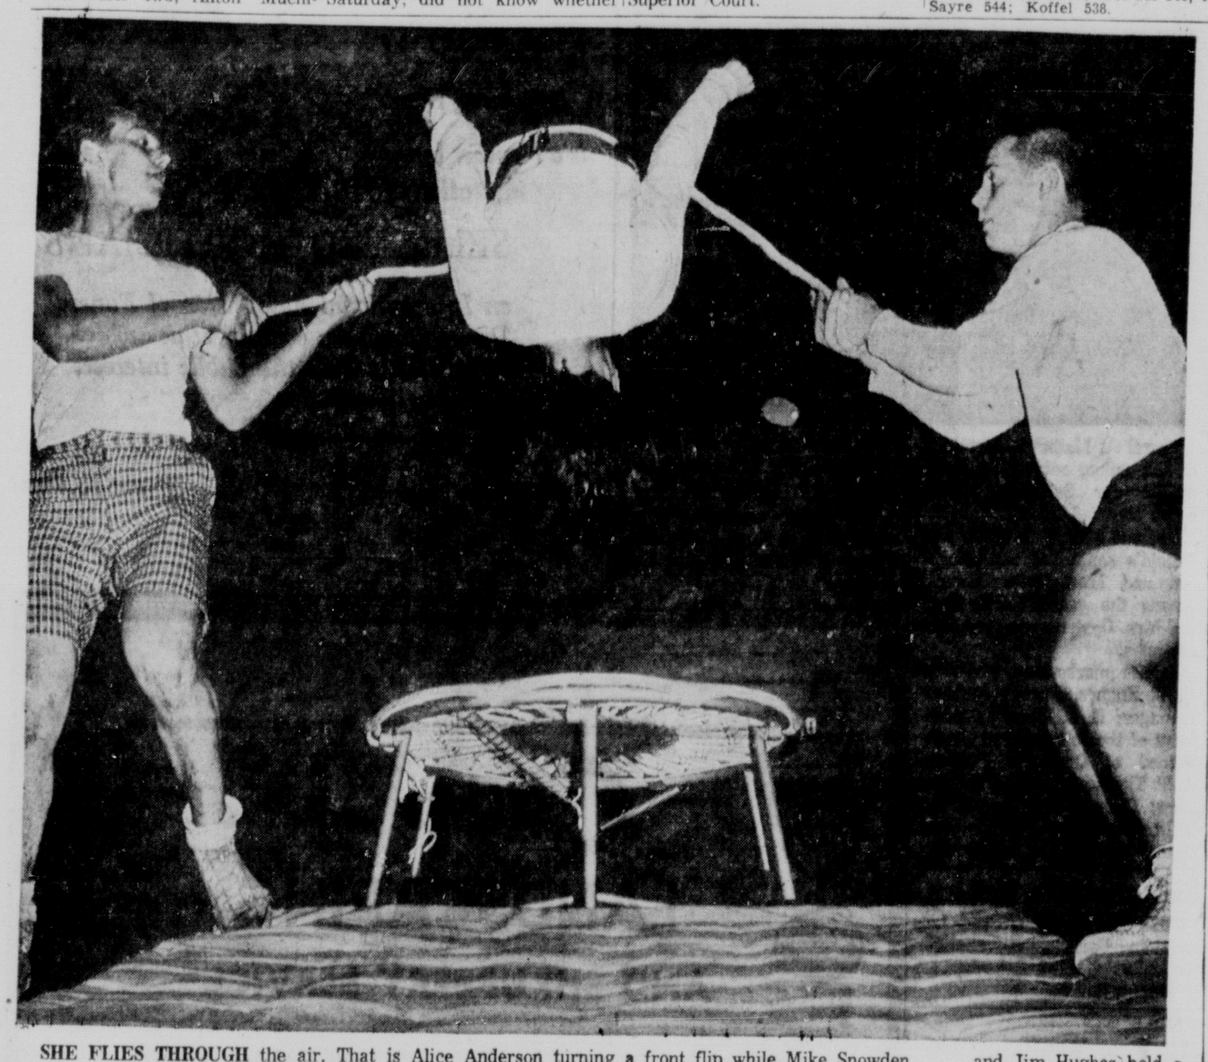
Muehlbauer was freed under $3,000 bond posted by a friend, Tom Cain, a basketball fan and Raleigh insurance salesman.

Litchfield was held under house arrested at the college infirmary where he is recovering from a sore throat and fever.

The State Bureau of Investigation (SBI), which disclosed the charges at a news conference Saturday, did not know whether Los Angeles police had arrested a fourth man, Lou Barshak of Brooklyn, identified as the contact man in the alleged gambling conspiracy.

SBI Director Walter Anderson said he understood Barshak is a student at Los Angeles State College, but officials at the college said he had never enrolled.

The four men face maximum sentences of 15 years on each count when they come to trial in Superior Court.



SHE FLIES THROUGH the air. That is Alice Anderson turning a front flip while Mike Snowden and Jim Hughes hold a safety belt as the three rehearse for the third annual gymnastic show to be held Tuesday at 7:30 at East Junior High School. The safety belt is used during practice as a precaution. Newcomers Flood '500 Scene At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Brash newcomers have taken the place of four veterans killed since starting in the 1960 Memorial Day auto race.

There were six rookies among the 27 drivers who made 10-mile qualifying runs over the weekend for the golden anniversary 500-miler May 30.

Parnelli Jones, of Torrance, Calif., almost unbeatable on the Midwest high bank tracks last season, was fastest of the first-time qualifiers at 146.033 miles an hour.

Jack Brabham of Australia, defending world road racing champion and a champion intercontinental commuter, was second best of the "rookies" at 145.144 in a tiny English Cooper Climax.

Jones is 27 and Brabham 35. The other first-time qualifiers are A. J. Shepherd, 32, Gardena, Calif.; Ebb Rose, 36, Houston, Tex.; Bob Cleberg, 32, Tucson, Ariz., and Norm Hall, 35, Los Angeles.

They'll be at a definite disadvantage against 21 other qualified drivers who have averaged five Memorial Day starts.

Eddie Sachs, Center Valley, Pa., only 33 but veteran of four speedway starts, won the pole position in Saturday's opening session at 147.481 miles an hour in a Dean Special.

Last year's starters missing from the scene at Tony Bettenhausen, killed Friday when a bolt snapped in a car he was testing; Jimmy Bryan, the 1958 winner; Al Herman and Johnny Thomson. The last three were killed on other tracks.

The Smiths are the largest clan in Scotland.

3 North Carolina Cagers Face Charges Of Bribery

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Three North Carolina State College basketball players, including Captain Stan Niewierowski, face trial here June 5 on charges of accepting bribes to shave points or throw games.

Niewierowski was taken into custody Sunday by police in his hometown of Brooklyn, N.Y., and held as a material witness pending arrival of a North Carolina warrant.

The other two, Anton Muehlbauer of Brooklyn and Terry Litchfield of Louisville, Ky., were arrested over the weekend.

Muehlbauer was freed under $3,000 bond posted by a friend, Tom Cain, a basketball fan and Raleigh insurance salesman.

Litchfield was held under house arrested at the college infirmary where he is recovering from a sore throat and fever.

The State Bureau of Investigation (SBI), which disclosed the charges at a news conference Saturday, did not know whether Los Angeles police had arrested a fourth man, Lou Barshak of Brooklyn, identified as the contact man in the alleged gambling conspiracy.

SBI Director Walter Anderson said he understood Barshak is a student at Los Angeles State College, but officials at the college said he had never enrolled.

The four men face maximum sentences of 15 years on each count when they come to trial in Superior Court.

SHE FLIES THROUGH the air. That is Alice Anderson turning a front flip while Mike Snowden and Jim Hughes hold a safety belt as the three rehearse for the third annual gymnastic show to be held Tuesday at 7:30 at East Junior High School. The safety belt is used during practice as a precaution. Some 100 boys and girls will take part in the show under the direction of Mrs. Gyla Nicely and Dom Cascio, physical education instructors at East Junior High.

Local Accidents Damage 3 Autos

Three autos were damaged in two minor traffic accidents in East Liverpool Saturday and Sunday, police reported.

A mishap at E. 3rd St. and Broadway at 2:57 p. m. Sunday damaged a 1960 sedan driven by Laura E. Stemmon, 56, of Pittsburgh and a 1960 station wagon operated by David P. Harris, 52, also of Pittsburgh, police said.

The station wagon was halted for a traffic light when it was hit from the rear by the woman's car, police said. The woman driver said her brakes failed. There was damage to the front of her auto and the rear of the station wagon, police said.

A similar mishap on Jefferson St. at W. 6th St. at 11:51 a. m. Saturday involved two autos, police reported.

The 1961 station wagon of Forrest McKinnon, 41, of Brunswick Ave. was hit from the rear by a 1954 four-door sedan operated by Clarence Hulse, 313½ Peach Alley, police said. McKinnon told police he was halted for a traffic light when his vehicle was hit from the rear by the Hulse car. The rear bumper of the McKinnon auto was damaged, police said.

Merchants Hope To Sidestep Jinx At Pirates' Game

Forty-five members of the East Liverpool Merchants Association will cross their fingers at least figuratively Wednesday afternoon when they start on their annual outing at the Pittsburgh-St. Louis baseball game at Forbes Field.

It's the fourth consecutive year the ELMA members have attended a Pirate game, but the Bucs haven't managed to win one yet when the merchants were in the stands. The ELMA members hope the string of three consecutive defeats will be interrupted with a victory at their outing Wednesday.

The merchants, with several Chamber of Commerce members as "added starters," will leave the Bus Terminal at 12:45 p.m. The trip will be made via chartered bus, plus a private car or two.

At 2 p.m., the group will start a trip around the Golden Triangle area of Pittsburgh aboard the pleasure craft Gateway Clipper from the Monongahela wharf. They will have a buffet dinner at 5:30 at the Webster Hall Hotel before going to the Pirate-Cardinal game.

Harold Allison and Leslie Blumenthal are in charge of arrangements.

The penguin is able to swim 100 miles a day without exerting itself.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I am "Stinky" — the guy whose cigars smell up the office. But I don't intend to take all that abuse lying down. Did it ever occur to you that I might have a good reason for sticking a big cigar in my face the minute I hit the office? Well—I have.

It's that lousy, cheap perfume the girls wear. It makes me sick. Can you imagine what it's like to work in an office with three women who wear lily of the valley? This fragrance has bothered me since kindergarten. The teacher used it and I hated her.

And I click my dentures, too, according to the girls in the office. Well, I don't have full dentures — just a two-place bridge. It's new and it feels like a Cadillac in my mouth. I do click a little but I do it to drown out the sound of the dames behind me. They pop chewing gum all day.

So you see, there are two sides to every story, Ann. I hope you will print this letter and please don't send me any advice. The only thing you could suggest is that I buy these spooks some expensive perfume and, believe me, I'm not in the mood. — STINKY.

Sober Reflection

Dear Ann: What is your advice to a girl who is past 25, self-supporting and not bad looking? I've been going with a man who is 33. He never has been married, he's terrific company and dates no one else.

The romance had a third anniversary last week. When Oswald has a snoot full he makes public declarations of his love for me — to anyone who will listen.

He says I have a beautiful soul, a marvelous mind, an understanding heart and that he wants to marry me. When he sobers up he doesn't remember a thing. If I remind him he says, "Don't take me seriously, honey."

I've heard it said that people are really themselves when they're a little loaded. Is this true? I want to marry Oswald and I'm wondering is patience the answer? — GOLDILOCKS.

Dear Goldie: My advice is take his advice and don't take him seriously. A man who must get boiled in order to express his real feelings, is too immature and inhibited for marriage.

Alcohol removes the brain's "censoring agent" and people often show the "unguarded self" when they are drunk. But who wants to live with a man who has to get fractured before he can be friendly? A relationship that can't face the cold light of sobriety isn't worth your time and energy.

Self Discipline

Dear Ann: Do you think an 11-year-old boy should have to play the piano against his will? I don't like piano lessons one bit, but but my mother says I have to take them anyway.

Please answer this in your article because my mother acts like you know everything. If you double-cross me I am a dead duck and that's for sure — UNWILLING PIANIST.

Dear Unwilling: Everybody—even grownups — have to do some things they don't like. It's a good idea for kids to practice doing things they hate so, when they grow up they will have had some experience at it. Stick with the piano for a couple more years. A boy who has no interest in music lessons should be unchained — I mean excused — when he is 13.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Prepare Cottage For Easy Living

AP Newsfeatures

If you are sprucing up a summer cottage or a weekend haven, don't let your desire to keep up with the permanent residents get the best of you.

A summer cottage should be a fun place where everyone can take it easy — and that includes the lady of the house.

You can make the summer cottage a joy with economical foresight, however, by putting into it only what you can take out of it, unless you own it. What you put into it should be cheerful and easily maintained.

FEW RENTED cottages ever look cozy for the reason that they lack the warmth of color.

There must be an unwritten law among cottage landlords that summer cottages should be furnished in muddy brown, inky blue and very dusty pink to withstand summer traffic, that walls must be covered with art from the bleak period, and that rugs should look as if they had been steam rolled with moldy Swiss cheese.

If you walk into one of those dreary vacationland setups, remedy the situation before the place gets the entire family afeudin' and afussin'.

Strip windows of heavy draperies. Let in the light. Put up bright white or colorful sheets at the windows by sliding a curtain rod through hems or hanging them on curtain clips.

If windows are better suited to cafe curtains, use pillow cases, opening the side seam. Hem and hang them on curtain clips.

What to do about a messy sofa? Drape a washable solid color or striped table cloth over it. Two may be required. Pin them in place behind the sofa and under the cushions.

If you own the place, summer furniture may be perked up with paint and new cushions.

Rattan should be cleaned with mineral spirits to remove dirt, wax and polish. Sand lightly. If the original color is darker than the enamel to be applied, two coats will probably be necessary.

Load the brush, flow on following the wood grain, and then, without reloading the brush, cross stroke. Follow the grain again with long, free strokes to insure even coverage.

—:—

SPRAYING is the best method for wicker furniture. The aerosol self spraying enamels are fine, but are not meant for larger jobs. Before enameling wrought iron furniture, clean it, and sand away any traces of rust.

Touch up bare metal spots with metal primer and spray or use a small brush to paint.

Leftover paint may be used on beat-up lighting fixtures and lamp bases. These should be cleaned first and coated with zinc-chromate to provide adhesion for enamel.

Corduroy or inexpensive cotton may be used for cushions. One summer cottage resident uses a yellow and white color scheme.

She paints the wicker furniture white, uses yellow corduroy cushions, yellow cotton table cover with white ball fringe. White pillow cases are at the window and are kept white with dry chlorine bleach.

Replace old faded rugs with washable rugs that may be used in bathrooms later. These may be soaked and hung out to dry over a line or tossed in a washing machine if one is available. White rugs may be kept bright with dry bleach also.

Turquoise, yellow and vivid colors such as orange and brilliant pink are gay colors for shore homes.

One may prefer quieter colors at a mountain retreat — pale yellow, French blue and the earth tones — sand and clay are contrasts with some of the greens. Decorative items could include objects made of wood.

A dreary cottage may take you by surprise. You can get instant cheer with geraniums.

Buy the quantity you can afford, paint the pots white and place the geraniums everywhere. A porch may be livened up that way also at little cost. Choose geraniums in over-sized clay pots and place them around steps and porch railings.

THIS HANDSOME GOOD NEIGHBOR fence is a friendly way to mark the property boundaries. Built of 1x6 inch Douglas fir boards in a solid pattern, it effectively keeps children in and wandering canines out. Decorative crown and posts lend grace to the garden fence, which is built in sections to step down a sloping yard.

Columbus Police Hold Man, 47, For Shooting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Benny Gray, 47, was held in jail today for investigation of shooting with intent to kill after wounding his girl friend and then attempting to kill himself, police reported.

Police said he fired a .38 caliber revolver five times at Jean Robinson, 48, who was hospitalized Sunday in fair condition with shoulder and jaw wounds. He left her home and later shot himself twice in the chest, officers said. A hospital treated and released him.

Speakers Scheduled At Science Assembly

Eight speakers will appear at a "science assembly" of the Beaver Local Science Club Wednesday from 7:30 to 10 p. m. at the Beaver Local Public school gymnasium.

They will include Dr. George Van Horne, executive head of the school district; Ted Taylor, club advisor, and six students who are members of the club. Science exhibits will be displayed. Refreshments will be served by the club.

'Good Neighbor' Plan Suggested On Fences

PORTLAND, Ore. — A backyard fence can sever connections or be the tie that binds between neighbors.

Householders who nail up a fence like they were digging in for all-out war are likely to find a neighborhood war on their hands. It happens — sometimes to the extreme of involving lawsuits.

When fences are involved, you can have your cake and eat it too. The smartest way to get exactly what you want is to invite the folks next door over for tea, discuss your plans and enlist their cooperation. Such tactics are sure to win friends, and may even involve your neighbors to the point where they'll ante up half the cost for an adjoining fence.

But most important of all is that the fence be designed so that it is complimentary to both your home and your neighbor's home because that will give it built-in friendliness. It's possible, even with a high fence that's designed to give your yard complete privacy.

The high but friendly fence could, for example, be a solid board design, the most enclosing fence style of all, with just a few small touches to make it light and airy.

Spacing the boards a quarter inch apart — or perhaps only an eighth of an inch — will make the fence appear much lighter in design without destroying the style's effectiveness.

Another good trick is to add a decorative, open crown. One attractive type of crown can be built with common 2x4s, arranged to outline open squares two feet long and a foot high. Then 2x4s are nailed diagonally across the open square to form an X. The effect is delicate and lacy and makes the solid board fence look more decorative than functional.

The proper fence finish will go a long way in creating a good neighbor policy, too. It's generally a smart idea to stay away from colors when painting and stick to clear, sparkling white.

White will make an attractive backdrop for plantings on both sides of the fence and is complimentary to any style and color of house. Or, if both houses are rustic or contemporary in character, a neutral, wood-colored stain is a good bet.

Studs Governed By Panel Plan

AP Newsfeatures

Question: We are planning on finishing our expansion attic with some kind of wood paneling. Can you tell us how far apart the studs should be and whether it is necessary to apply furring strips to the studs before putting up the paneling?

Answer: Before putting up the framing, you must decide whether the wood paneling will be installed vertically or horizontally.

The usual method is to place the panels vertically. In that event, the studs can be 24 inches apart on center; that is, 24 inches from the center of one stud to the center of the next. But you then must nail horizontal furring strips to the studs — with the panels attached to the furring strips.

If you decide to place the panels horizontally, then furring strips are not necessary, but the studs will have to be closer together, 16 inches apart on center.

How should you decide whether to place the panels vertically or horizontally? First, it's a matter of personal taste. Try to see at least one example of each type of installation. And secondly, remember this general rule: vertical panels tend to make a ceiling appear higher; horizontal panels tend to make a room appear larger but the ceiling lower.

Drivers Cited In 3 Mishaps

Despite a surge of heavy traffic on the sunny weekend, only four crashes were investigated by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

The patrol said all drivers involved escaped injury in the mishaps Saturday and Sunday. However, three were cited.

A city teen-ager was cited on a charge of failure to halt in the assured clear distance after his auto struck the rear of another East Liverpool car Saturday night on Route 30.

Phillip I. Garey Jr., 17, of Westfield was cited when his auto hit the rear of the car of Blanna Mae Geer, 42, of 135 W. 2nd St., as the woman slowed to avoid striking an animal on the road. The mishap occurred Saturday at 10:10 p. m., a half-mile north of Route 170. Both cars were traveling south.

Daniel L. Conser Jr., 16, of Kensington R. D. 1 was cited on a charge of reckless driving when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and sheared off a utility pole and six fence posts Sunday at 7:10 a. m. on County Rd. 402 near New Alexandria. There was considerable damage to his car, the patrol reported.

Carl A. Osberg, 21, of New Waterford R. D. 1 was cited for reckless driving when he lost control and ran off the right side of the road Saturday at 1 a. m. on a Township road near East Palestine. The patrol said there was considerable damage to his 1960 car.

Ernest B. Ferris, 54, of East Palestine escaped injury when he lost control and went off the left side of the road and damaged 25 feet of guardrail along Highway 170 in Negley Sunday at 12:30 a. m.

'Moon Landing' Seen Over 10 Years Away

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A leading Austrian physicist says he believes a landing on the moon by human beings will not be possible within the next decade.

Prof. Hans Thirring of Vienna University said the recent space trips by a Soviet and an American prove that a voyage to the moon will eventually be possible, but that the actual journey and safe return to earth is still a long time off.

Ceiling Given New Look By Latest Panels

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Home drama hits the ceiling with new do-it-yourself acoustical panels designed by Michael Greer.

Little attempt has been made in the last decades to beautify ceilings, except for handsome painted or custom ceiling decoration, and panels that show conventionalized flowers or abstract design.

But things are looking up and this new effort to enhance ceiling brings good design within the average homemaker's budget.

"Ceiling enhancement was part of the decorating concept of the past up until the middle of the 19th century. If anything, it may have been overdone," says Greer, "but ceilings lost their significance when contemporary design began simplifying home decor."

There were the brilliantly-colored, highly ornate gilt ceilings of the Renaissance, the houses of architect Andrea Palladio with their sky-like decorations, the Adam ceilings that were of plaster casts, skillful architectural gems, like the brothers' mantlepieces and other room decorations.

At the turn of the century in America ornate ceilings were in high favor in important homes.

Greer's ceiling designs are for the times — architectural patterns that are a compliment to any decor.

"A blank ceiling in a decorative room can be a bore," he says, "and when it is, it takes on too much importance."

One motif "medallion" in decorator shades of green and gray has a simple elegance toe nhance a formal or informal dining room setting.

Greer's design for a bedroom, "floral tracery," is an aesthetic motif in turquoise that has a purposeful enchantment ideally suited to repose.

"Bamboo Trellis," a bold ceiling pattern has a companion floor tile of vinyl-asbestos to simplify room decoration for the amateur decorator.

The ceiling trellis design is in rich vibrant red, a warm bamboo color or a cool green on a white background. The motif is ideally suited to a family room, den, or living room.

"Bamboo leaves," a floor tile designed to harmonize with each color in the ceiling motif, is a casual design that gets around the technical restrictions which do not permit repeat patterns, Greer says.

One of four room settings on display at the National Design Center in New York, the trellis pattern is used on walls as well as ceilings and floors to illustrate the possibilities of achieving an illusion of outdoors.

Eight more designs are to be made available before the end of the year. The panels and tiles are available at lumber yards and building supply stations.

Periodic Checks Asked In Social Security Credits

Everyone who pays Social Security taxes should check his account regularly or he may find too late that some of his work has not been reported correctly or hasn't been listed at all, William J. McCauley, manager of the district Social Security office in Youngstown, warned today.

In some cases, the account cannot be corrected because the time limit for adjustment has run out or the employer has moved away or died and his records are not available, McCauley said.

To avoid errors, workers should check their accounts once every three years, he said. Any errors then can be corrected and benefits paid at retirement, disability or death will be the highest possible amount, McCauley said.

A card form is available at any Social Security office for checking accounts. A worker who sends the card to the Social Security home office will get a statement of his last three years' credits.

In addition, a new booklet will be included. It explains how Social Security records are kept and how to read the statement. It also tells what payments are made, how much the payments are, the amount of work needed and where the money comes from to pay benefits.

Prepare Cottage For Easy Living

AP Newsfeatures

If you are sprucing up a summer cottage or a weekend haven, don't let your desire to keep up with the permanent residents get the best of you.

A summer cottage should be a fun place where everyone can take it easy — and that includes the lady of the house.

You can make the summer cottage a joy with economical foresight, however, by putting into it only what you can take out of it, unless you own it. What you put into it should be cheerful and easily maintained.

FEW RENTED cottages ever look cozy for the reason that they lack the warmth of color.

There must be an unwritten law among cottage landlords that summer cottages should be furnished in muddy brown, inky blue and very dusty pink to withstand summer traffic, that walls must be covered with art from the bleak period, and that rugs should look as if they had been steam rolled with moldy Swiss cheese.

If you walk into one of those dreary vacationland setups, remedy the situation before the place gets the entire family afeudin' and afussin'.

Strip windows of heavy draperies. Let in the light. Put up bright white or colorful sheets at the windows by sliding a curtain rod through hems or hanging them on curtain clips.

If windows are better suited to cafe curtains, use pillow cases, opening the side seam. Hem and hang them on curtain clips.

What to do about a messy sofa? Drape a washable solid color or striped table cloth over it. Two may be required. Pin them in place behind the sofa and under the cushions.

If you own the place, summer furniture may be perked up with paint and new cushions.

Rattan should be cleaned with mineral spirits to remove dirt, wax and polish. Sand lightly. If the original color is darker than the enamel to be applied, two coats will probably be necessary.

Load the brush, flow on following the wood grain, and then, without reloading the brush, cross stroke. Follow the grain again with long, free strokes to insure even coverage.

—:—

SPRAYING is the best method for wicker furniture. The aerosol self spraying enamels are fine, but are not meant for larger jobs. Before enameling wrought iron furniture, clean it, and sand away any traces of rust.

Touch up bare metal spots with metal primer and spray or use a small brush to paint.

Leftover paint may be used on beat-up lighting fixtures and lamp bases. These should be cleaned first and coated with zinc-chromate to provide adhesion for enamel.

Corduroy or inexpensive cotton may be used for cushions. One summer cottage resident uses a yellow and white color scheme.

She paints the wicker furniture white, uses yellow corduroy cushions, yellow cotton table cover with white ball fringe. White pillow cases are at the window and are kept white with dry chlorine bleach.

Replace old faded rugs with washable rugs that may be used in bathrooms later. These may be soaked and hung out to dry over a line or tossed in a washing machine if one is available. White rugs may be kept bright with dry bleach also.

Turquoise, yellow and vivid colors such as orange and brilliant pink are gay colors for shore homes.

One may prefer quieter colors at a mountain retreat — pale yellow, French blue and the earth tones — sand and clay are contrasts with some of the greens. Decorative items could include objects made of wood.

A dreary cottage may take you by surprise. You can get instant cheer with geraniums.

Buy the quantity you can afford, paint the pots white and place the geraniums everywhere. A porch may be livened up that way also at little cost. Choose geraniums in over-sized clay pots and place them around steps and porch railings.

THIS HANDSOME GOOD NEIGHBOR fence is a friendly way to mark the property boundaries. Built of 1x6 inch Douglas fir boards in a solid pattern, it effectively keeps children in and wandering canines out. Decorative crown and posts lend grace to the garden fence, which is built in sections to step down a sloping yard.

'Good Neighbor' Plan Suggested On Fences

PORTLAND, Ore. — A backyard fence can sever connections or be the tie that binds between neighbors.

Householders who nail up a fence like they were digging in for all-out war are likely to find a neighborhood war on their hands. It happens — sometimes to the extreme of involving lawsuits.

When fences are involved, you can have your cake and eat it too. The smartest way to get exactly what you want is to invite the folks next door over for tea, discuss your plans and enlist their cooperation. Such tactics are sure to win friends, and may even involve your neighbors to the point where they'll ante up half the cost for an adjoining fence.

But most important of all is that the fence be designed so that it is complimentary to both your home and your neighbor's home because that will give it built-in friendliness. It's possible, even with a high fence that's designed to give your yard complete privacy.

The high but friendly fence could, for example, be a solid board design, the most enclosing fence style of all, with just a few small touches to make it light and airy.

Spacing the boards a quarter inch apart — or perhaps only an eighth of an inch — will make the fence appear much lighter in design without destroying the style's effectiveness.

Another good trick is to add a decorative, open crown. One attractive type of crown can be built with common 2x4s, arranged to outline open squares two feet long and a foot high. Then 2x4s are nailed diagonally across the open square to form an X. The effect is delicate and lacy and makes the solid board fence look more decorative than functional.

The proper fence finish will go a long way in creating a good neighbor policy, too. It's generally a smart idea to stay away from colors when painting and stick to clear, sparkling white.

White will make an attractive backdrop for plantings on both sides of the fence and is complimentary to any style and color of house. Or, if both houses are rustic or contemporary in character, a neutral, wood-colored stain is a good bet.

Studs Governed By Panel Plan

AP Newsfeatures

Question: We are planning on finishing our expansion attic with some kind of wood paneling. Can you tell us how far apart the studs should be and whether it is necessary to apply furring strips to the studs before putting up the paneling?

Answer: Before putting up the framing, you must decide whether the wood paneling will be installed vertically or horizontally.

The usual method is to place the panels vertically. In that event, the studs can be 24 inches apart on center; that is, 24 inches from the center of one stud to the center of the next. But you then must nail horizontal furring strips to the studs — with the panels attached to the furring strips.

If you decide to place the panels horizontally, then furring strips are not necessary, but the studs will have to be closer together, 16 inches apart on center.

How should you decide whether to place the panels vertically or horizontally? First, it's a matter of personal taste. Try to see at least one example of each type of installation. And secondly, remember this general rule: vertical panels tend to make a ceiling appear higher; horizontal panels tend to make a room appear larger but the ceiling lower.

Drivers Cited In 3 Mishaps

Despite a surge of heavy traffic on the sunny weekend, only four crashes were investigated by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

The patrol said all drivers involved escaped injury in the mishaps Saturday and Sunday. However, three were cited.

A city teen-ager was cited on a charge of failure to halt in the assured clear distance after his auto struck the rear of another East Liverpool car Saturday night on Route 30.

Phillip I. Garey Jr., 17, of Westfield was cited when his auto hit the rear of the car of Blanna Mae Geer, 42, of 135 W. 2nd St., as the woman slowed to avoid striking an animal on the road. The mishap occurred Saturday at 10:10 p. m., a half-mile north of Route 170. Both cars were traveling south.

Daniel L. Conser Jr., 16, of Kensington R. D. 1 was cited on a charge of reckless driving when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and sheared off a utility pole and six fence posts Sunday at 7:10 a. m. on County Rd. 402 near New Alexandria. There was considerable damage to his car, the patrol reported.

Carl A. Osberg, 21, of New Waterford R. D. 1 was cited for reckless driving when he lost control and ran off the right side of the road Saturday at 1 a. m. on a Township road near East Palestine. The patrol said there was considerable damage to his 1960 car.

Ernest B. Ferris, 54, of East Palestine escaped injury when he lost control and went off the left side of the road and damaged 25 feet of guardrail along Highway 170 in Negley Sunday at 12:30 a. m.

'Moon Landing' Seen Over 10 Years Away

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A leading Austrian physicist says he believes a landing on the moon by human beings will not be possible within the next decade.

Prof. Hans Thirring of Vienna University said the recent space trips by a Soviet and an American prove that a voyage to the moon will eventually be possible, but that the actual journey and safe return to earth is still a long time off.

Well-Fed Thieves

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Burglars made good use of a drive-in restaurant. Their take: 40 hamburger patties, 25 slices of cheese and a quantity of french fries. And they used the kitchen to cook their loot.

Columbus Police Hold Man, 47, For Shooting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Benny Gray, 47, was held in jail today for investigation of shooting with intent to kill after wounding his girl friend and then attempting to kill himself, police reported.

Police said he fired a .38 caliber revolver five times at Jean Robinson, 48, who was hospitalized Sunday in fair condition with shoulder and jaw wounds. He left her home and later shot himself twice in the chest, officers said. A hospital treated and released him.

Speakers Scheduled At Science Assembly

Eight speakers will appear at a "science assembly" of the Beaver Local Science Club Wednesday from 7:30 to 10 p. m. at the Beaver Local Public school gymnasium.

They will include Dr. George Van Horne, executive head of the school district; Ted Taylor, club advisor, and six students who are members of the club. Science exhibits will be displayed. Refreshments will be served by the club.

Ceiling Given New Look By Latest Panels

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Home drama hits the ceiling with new do-it-yourself acoustical panels designed by Michael Greer.

Little attempt has been made in the last decades to beautify ceilings, except for handsome painted or custom ceiling decoration, and panels that show conventionalized flowers or abstract design.

But things are looking up and this new effort to enhance ceiling brings good design within the average homemaker's budget.

"Ceiling enhancement was part of the decorating concept of the past up until the middle of the 19th century. If anything, it may have been overdone," says Greer, "but ceilings lost their significance when contemporary design began simplifying home decor."

There were the brilliantly-colored, highly ornate gilt ceilings of the Renaissance, the houses of architect Andrea Palladio with their sky-like decorations, the Adam ceilings that were of plaster casts, skillful architectural gems, like the brothers' mantlepieces and other room decorations.

At the turn of the century in America ornate ceilings were in high favor in important homes.

Greer's ceiling designs are for the times — architectural patterns that are a compliment to any decor.

"A blank ceiling in a decorative room can be a bore," he says, "and when it is, it takes on too much importance."

One motif "medallion" in decorator shades of green and gray has a simple elegance toe nhance a formal or informal dining room setting.

Greer's design for a bedroom, "floral tracery," is an aesthetic motif in turquoise that has a purposeful enchantment ideally suited to repose.

"Bamboo Trellis," a bold ceiling pattern has a companion floor tile of vinyl-asbestos to simplify room decoration for the amateur decorator.

"Bamboo leaves," a floor tile designed to harmonize with each color in the ceiling motif, is a casual design that gets around the technical restrictions which do not permit repeat patterns, Greer says.

One of four room settings on display at the National Design Center in New York, the trellis pattern is used on walls as well as ceilings and floors to illustrate the possibilities of achieving an illusion of outdoors.

Eight more designs are to be made available before the end of the year. The panels and tiles are available at lumber yards and building supply stations.

Periodic Checks Asked In Social Security Credits

Everyone who pays Social Security taxes should check his account regularly or he may find too late that some of his work has not been reported correctly or hasn't been listed at all, William J. McCauley, manager of the district Social Security office in Youngstown, warned today.

In some cases, the account cannot be corrected because the time limit for adjustment has run out or the employer has moved away or died and his records are not available, McCauley said.

To avoid errors, workers should check their accounts once every three years, he said. Any errors then can be corrected and benefits paid at retirement, disability or death will be the highest possible amount, McCauley said.

A card form is available at any Social Security office for checking accounts. A worker who sends the card to the Social Security home office will get a statement of his last three years' credits.

In addition, a new booklet will be included. It explains how Social Security records are kept and how to read the statement. It also tells what payments are made, how much the payments are, the amount of work needed and where the money comes from to pay benefits.

Youth Sentenced In Theft Of Gas

A 21-year-old East End youth was sentenced to 15 days in the County Jail at Lisbon today after pleading guilty in Municipal Court to siphoning $2 worth of gasoline from a parked truck.

Herbert Eugene Robinson, 21, of 1785 Pennsylvania Ave. drew the jail term from Judge Samuel M. Chertoff and also will be turned over to juvenile authorities for contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old East End boy who joined him in the gasoline theft.

Robinson and his companion were nabbed by Patrolman Orin Smith at 11:10 p. m. Saturday in the Horn Switch. Smith told the court he had just gone off duty when he heard a car in the Horn Switch and walked up on the two as they were taking gas from a truck owned by Vance Andrews.

The popularly - used phrase, "Mutual Admiration Society," was originaged by Oliver Wendell Holmes in his "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

Sink Termed Focal Point For Kitchen

CHICAGO — Research and studies in the home reveal that the average housewife in a family of four will cover 24,000 city blocks or 3,000 miles annually doing the household chores.

And it's a safe assumption that a majority of these miles will be walked off in the kitchen.

If you are contemplating remodeling or if you are planning a new home, careful thought should be given to the design of the kitchen, the Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau advises.

As the kitchen represents the center of the housewife's world, the design and planning should be made with an eye to making every square foot count in order to save millions of steps and unnecessary work. Also, this functional use of space can be set amidst a galaxy of smart decorative glamor to suit your style and taste.

The heart of your kitchen plans should be the modern multi-purpose sink. And this fixture should be selected with great care. For the ultimate in convenience and attractiveness, these plans should include a double-bowl cabinet style sink, complete with garbage disposer and single-lever faucet.

Kitchen sinks are available in either stainless steel or a number of decorative shades — pink, blue, green, gray, yellow, sun-tan and ivory. Thus the sink becomes the focal point from which you can coordinate the decor of the entire kitchen.

Uranium is a silvery color. Like iron and silver, it is a metal, and, like most metals, in its natural state it is found in the ground mixed with other materials.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Fears Should Be Treated Calmly

You'd best begin as soon as your child is born to bring him up to have as few fears as possible the rest of his life. Though you may be encumbered with many fears yourself, you may even lessen or overcome them in your zeal to help your little child escape like fears or other ones. Naturally, you will try to protect your baby and young child from sudden shocks and frights and physical injuries. But in spite of your greatest caution and effort, some of these will occur. Your problem then is to act as intelligently as possible.

Dr. Garry Meyers

YOU AIM, of course, will be to help your baby and tot to grow reasonably hardened to normal physical pain and to help him accept it as a matter of course.

Obviously, his fears from being hurt physically help contribute to all sorts of later fears he may have; so also your own anxieties about any physical pain he may face will make it hard for you to keep from making him suppose he was hurt more than he really was, and therefore more fearful of being hurt again.

If the baby too young to creep should roll on a blanket and hit his head against a chair, he might not even cry, or cry but slightly. But if you should grab him up and make a great ado, revealing your fear that he was hurt, he will have bene made ready to cry harder and longer next time.

IF YOU HAD been wiser, you would have done nothing, made no utterance.

If at two or three your child falls, and if you quickly pick him up, fearing he has been badly hurt, he may later cry or scream at the slightest bump. If he is able to get up alone, let him do so.

If he needs first aid, administer it as calmly as if you were a nurse or doctor.

So treated, a youngster after falling may get up smiling while blood is seeping from his hands and knees. You and I have seen this happen.

On coming in from play a certain youngster, five, showed his mother a scratch on his knee and told her how it happened.

"Did you cry?" she asked.

"No," he replied, "nobody else was there."

My bulletin, "Fears in Children," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Tips Offered For Building Cold Frames

As all amateur gardeners know, standard cold frames made of concrete cannot be moved. And more often than not, the changes which gradually come to any country or suburban place frequently make the home owner wish that he had not been so hasty in establishing the location.

It is possible to make cold frames which are entirely satisfactory and which can be moved as often as desired, out of ordinary half-inch plywood.

To do this job properly, one must first cast around for the glazed sash which will make the covers or lids for the frame. These may be storm sash or plain window sash or whatever size you wish. They require no hardware other than handles for lifting them. And even these are not essential. When the sash is on hand you know what size the frames must be.

The frames themselves are simply open boxes made by cutting the plywood to the required square dimensions, with the corners reenforced with 2 x 2 or 2 x 4 corner blocks. When the plywood is securely nailed into the corner blocks you have substantial assemblies which can be moved about at will.

One of the important things to attend to is the painting of the wood. Two coats should be applied as the frames will be in the open, and setting on the ground as they do, dampness will attack unpainted wood. The sash should be painted to match the frames.

There is nothing quite as necessary for the home owner to have on hand as cold frames, if he goes in for any type of flower or plant raising. The delicate seedlings are safe from wind, frost and rain in wood cold-frames, and best of all, the frames can be lifted and moved to sunny spots.

Youth Sentenced In Theft Of Gas

A 21-year-old East End youth was sentenced to 15 days in the County Jail at Lisbon today after pleading guilty in Municipal Court to siphoning $2 worth of gasoline from a parked truck.

Herbert Eugene Robinson, 21, of 1785 Pennsylvania Ave. drew the jail term from Judge Samuel M. Chertoff and also will be turned over to juvenile authorities for contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old East End boy who joined him in the gasoline theft.

Robinson and his companion were nabbed by Patrolman Orin Smith at 11:10 p. m. Saturday in the Horn Switch. Smith told the court he had just gone off duty when he heard a car in the Horn Switch and walked up on the two as they were taking gas from a truck owned by Vance Andrews.

Questioned by Judge Chertoff, Robinson admitted taking gasoline once previously, claiming he used it to operate his car.

Three Types Prove Useful For Calking

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you want to keep the elements out of your house, you may to be sure that it is calked thoroughly.

And the calking should be inspected annually to be sure that it is in good condition. An extra inspection should be made just before the start of an exterior paint job.

Calking is necessary where two dissimilar materials meet, in the spaces between butt joints and in the areas around pipes and utility openings.

Typical places are the junction of siding with windows, doors and eaves; junctions of porch floors with walls and pillars; junctions of wood siding with masonry of any type, and joints between masonry areas.

Before any type of calking compound is used, the surface must be free of dirt, dust, moisture and oil or grease.

Calking should not be applied when the temperature is less than 40 degrees. Gaps deeper than 5/8ths of an inch should be filled with oakum before the calking is used.

Most home owners find that the easiest way to apply calking is with a calking gun, of which there are two types.

In applying gun calk, hold the gun at about a 45-degree angle to the surface.

The nozzle is beveled to insure the proper angle. Also hold the gun in the same plane as the crevice you are filling — not at right angles. All joints or beads of calking should be at least 3/8ths of an inch deep. To estimate the amount of calking needed for a job, figure about 10 to 15 linear feet per cartridge, or 100 to 150 feet per gallon.

There are two other types of calking that can be used. One is available in a rope form in various dimensions and a number of strands are coiled in a roll.

One or more strands are used for temporary or permanent protection around windows, screens, louvers and miscellaneous joints in the home. This type can be easily removed if the seal is to be temporary and retains its tackiness indefinitely when used as a permanent seal and can be painted.

No tools are necessary with this type; just unroll the amount of rope needed, separate the number of strands necessary to fill the gap and press firmly into the crack with the fingers.

A third type of calking is known as knife grade and is applied with a putty knife or spatula. Dig out enough material from the container to fill the crack. Press firmly into place with the knife and smooth off until flush with the surrounding surface.

The most common calking colors are white, off-white, natural and gray.

While calking does not have to be painted, research shows that its life can be extended considerably if it is painted on installation.

Tile Industry Lauds Bid To Curb Imports

NEW YORK — The ceramic tile industry today landed the U.S. Tariff Commission's unanimous recommendation for increased tariffs on imports of ceramic mosaic tile.

The Tariff Commission recommended import duties be raised from their present level of four and one-quarter cents per square foot to 12½ cents, in response to an "escape clause" appeal by the Associated Ceramic Mosaic Tile Manufacturers.

R.C. Crabb, president of the Tile Council of America, the trade group of domestic manufacturers who produce 85 per cent of the wall and floor ceramic tile made in the United States, said the Tariff Commission's decision was "the greatest thing that could happen to our beleagured industry at this time."

Crabb said that "the thousands of families who depend for their livelihood upon this industry have been tremendously encouraged by this good news. We all are thankful and happy to know that an important step has been taken by a government agency toward reducing the flood of imported tile from low-wage countries."

The new tariff recommendation concerns ceramic mosaic tile, both glazed and unglazed. This type of tile is the smaller variety, measuring less than six square inches in facial surface.

It is most commonly used for durable flooring, although in the last few years ceramic mosaics, because of their greatest decorative value, have begun to find increased use on walls, counters and exteriors of buildings.

Last year imported ceramic mosaics captured 45 per cent of the market in this country. Domestic production was at 241,878,000 square feet. The greatest part of the imports has come from Japan.

The Tariff Commission found that these tiles, with the exclusion of high - priced so - called specialties, are being imported in such quantities as to cause serious injury to the domestic industry. The ruling now goes to President Kennedy for his action within 60 days.

Three Types Prove Useful For Calking

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you want to keep the elements out of your house, you may to be sure that it is calked thoroughly.

And the calking should be inspected annually to be sure that it is in good condition. An extra inspection should be made just before the start of an exterior paint job.

Calking is necessary where two dissimilar materials meet, in the spaces between butt joints and in the areas around pipes and utility openings.

Typical places are the junction of siding with windows, doors and eaves; junctions of porch floors with walls and pillars; junctions of wood siding with masonry of any type, and joints between masonry areas.

Before any type of calking compound is used, the surface must be free of dirt, dust, moisture and oil or grease.

Calking should not be applied when the temperature is less than 40 degrees. Gaps deeper than 5/8ths of an inch should be filled with oakum before the calking is used.

Most home owners find that the easiest way to apply calking is with a calking gun, of which there are two types.

The first is loaded with bulk compound from a container. Easier and less messy is the cartridge type which is loaded with a pre-packed cartridge of compound containing about 1-10th of a gallon.

In applying gun calk, hold the gun at about a 45-degree angle to the surface.

The nozzle is beveled to insure the proper angle. Also hold the gun in the same plane as the crevice you are filling — not at right angles. All joints or beads of calking should be at least 3/8ths of an inch deep. To estimate the amount of calking needed for a job, figure about 10 to 15 linear feet per cartridge, or 100 to 150 feet per gallon.

There are two other types of calking that can be used. One is available in a rope form in various dimensions and a number of strands are coiled in a roll.

One or more strands are used for temporary or permanent protection around windows, screens, louvers and miscellaneous joints in the home. This type can be easily removed if the seal is to be temporary and retains its tackiness indefinitely when used as a permanent seal and can be painted.

No tools are necessary with this type; just unroll the amount of rope needed, separate the number of strands necessary to fill the gap and press firmly into the crack with the fingers.

A third type of calking is known as knife grade and is applied with a putty knife or spatula. Dig out enough material from the container to fill the crack. Press firmly into place with the knife and smooth off until flush with the surrounding surface.

This type is particularly adaptable to medium - sized irregular cracks or crevices.

The most common calking colors are white, off-white, natural and gray.

While calking does not have to be painted, research shows that its life can be extended considerably if it is painted on installation.

File Industry Lauds Bid To Curb Imports

NEW YORK — The ceramic tile industry today landed the U.S. Tariff Commission's unanimous recommendation for increased tariffs on imports of ceramic mosaic tile.

The Tariff Commission recommended import duties be raised from their present level of four and one-quarter cents per square foot to 12½ cents, in response to an "escape clause" appeal by the Associated Ceramic Mosaic Tile Manufacturers.

R.C. Crabb, president of the Tile Council of America, the trade group of domestic manufacturers who produce 85 per cent of the wall and floor ceramic tile made in the United States, said the Tariff Commission's decision was "the greatest thing that could happen to our beleagured industry at this time."

Crabb said that "the thousands of families who depend for their livelihood upon this industry have been tremendously encouraged by this good news. We all are thankful and happy to know that an important step has been taken by a government agency toward reducing the flood of imported tile from low-wage countries."

The new tariff recommendation concerns ceramic mosaic tile, both glazed and unglazed. This type of tile is the smaller variety, measuring less than six square inches in facial surface.

It is most commonly used for durable flooring, although in the last few years ceramic mosaics, because of their greatest decorative value, have begun to find increased use on walls, counters and exteriors of buildings.

Production Continues At Globe

Cleanup Launched After Blaze

Cleanup operations were underway this morning at the Globe Brick Co. and production continued despite the loss of a drying shed that was destroyed in one of two fires in Newell over the weekend.

Fire of an undetermined origin razed the frame and metal building on the yard of the plant shortly before noon Saturday. There was no estimate of damage, but quick action by firemen and plant officials limited the loss to the building, some electrical equipment and an estimated 100 cars of "green" brick.

The debris was being cleared away and normal operations continued.

The "green" brick housed in the building was lost because of a soaking from the hoses of firemen from Newell, Chester and East Liverpool. Besides the stock, an electric fan and a small push truck also were lost.

Winston A. Porter, president, commended firemen for their promptness in arriving at the scene to help save the adjoining buildings, which housed drying machinery.

The fire was discovered at about 11:20 a. m. Saturday by Ralph Arrington, head kilnfiremen. Arrington fought the flames with an extinguisher and notified Ever Parsons, the plant foreman.

Parsons alerted Newell firemen, and the plant president summoned help by sounding the alarm over the plant's intercom system and called Chester and East Liverpool firemen.

There were no employes in the area at time the fire broke out, as production is partially curtailed on Saturday.

Corrugated metal attached to the ends of the frame building also helped localize the flames to the drying shed. The building was about 50 feet wide, and 80 feet in length.

The flames sent pillars of smoke hundreds of feet into the air, seen by residents in this area for miles. Newell firemen and insurance adjustors will investigate.

Newell was darkened by a power failure for an hour and a half Sunday night when trouble developed in the sub-station of the Monongahela Power Co. at 4th and Lincoln Sts.

The utility said a bushing burned out on the main transformer, causing an oil fuse to fail. Power was disrupted for 800 homes and the Metsch Refractories and Edwin M. Knowles China Co. from about 8 to 9:55 p. m.

A work crew from Weirton was called to make emergency repairs and Newell firemen stood by. There was only a small fire, but the failure produced flashes of fire and sparks.

Newell firemen also quelled a small blaze in an electric motor of an automatic laundry on Washington St. about 8:15, shortly after the sub-station power shortage.

Firemen said a motor of an exhaust fan apparently became overheated. Damage was limited to the motor of the fan which circulates air in the laundry room. Firemen were forced to break down the door to enter the building and disconnect the motor.

It Happened At Aqueduct

Several Questions Raised Since Horse Doping Case

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

How easy is it to stimulate a race horse?

What precautions are taken against horse doping?

How are stimulants detected?

Is it compulsory in New York to suspend a trainer whose horse has been doped?

These questions, and a few others, have been raised since Keep Ideals, a 3-year-old Stymie filly worth $4,000, earned a $2,275 purse (since taken away) by winning the second race at Aqueduct on the fourth day of New York's $500 million racing season.

Coramine is a respiratory stimulant used extensively on humans, especially new born babies. Its possession around a New York race track is illegal.

The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau whose job includes investigating fully all cases involving a horse drugging, has questioned everyone known to have been around Barn 8 the day of the race. That's where Hirsch Jacobs has 42 horses under his care. He has 27 stable employees.

AQUEDUCT was rebuilt less than two years ago at a cost of $33 million. It can seat 30,000 patrons and last Memorial Day held a 70,992. However, its stable area holds 500 horses and has sleeping quarters for 150 men.

That means it is impossible to watch every horse every minute. The doping of Keep Ideals is the second case of record at the Big A.

On opening day of 1960, Parky Tone, one of Trainer Frank E. Cundall's horses, ran second. Like all winners and place horses the animal was subject to the saliva or spit box test. The findings came up positive. Butazolidin, a pain killer, was detected. It is legal only at tracks in Illinois, Kentucky and Florida. Cundall was suspended 60 days, not for the stimulation but because Aqueduct stewards felt the trainer had been negligent in the security of his stable.

IN THE recent Keep Ideals case, Jacobs was given a clean bill of health. The fact that he led the nation's money winning trainers with $748,349 in purses in 1960, that he helps fill Aqueduct's racing programs with entries or that his record never has been suspect had nothing to do with the stewards' ruling. The stewards felt he had enough help around his barn to keep strangers at a distance.

Besides the test in which horses chew on gauze pads to produce saliva dripings in a tray, there also is urinalysis. One mystery in the Keep Ideals case was that the urinalysis was negative.

Four days after the recent doping, the stewards informed Jacobs of the positive saliva test. It was Jacobs who leaked out the story plus the fact that John Scott, a 57-year-old Negro groom in his employ, had a criminal record.

Scott once served 10 years and 7 months in jail on a second degree manslaughter charge. He was released in 1944.

Jacobs has said that he was unaware of Scott's past. However, even before Scott was fingerprinted by the Pinkertons and his prints processed by the TRPB, the groom volunteered his record. It was because of this admission that the track stewards permitted him to work for Trainer Eugene Weymouth. The latter knew of Scott's background. Two years ago, Jacobs hired Scott but apparently didn't check.

"THE fact that Scott had a record makes him no more or less of a suspect in this (doping) case," says Robert H. Laughlin, a pleasant white - haired 56-year-old native of Mitchell, Ind., and former FBI man who is the TRPB agent in charge of the investigation.

"Since 1956," adds Laughlin," the first year of the New York Racing Association, about 62,705 horses have gone to the saliva box. There have been only six positive results.

"There was nothing unusual in the wagering on the day in question, and it was a rather simple matter to check. March 23 was the worst weather of the spring and the poorest crowd (13,515) came out. Trainer Jacobs thought his horse ran a good race two days previously when he ran into a wall of horses. Jockey Mike Sorrentino said 'there was no change in the horse's running; he showed no unusual characteristic.' "

Coramine was last detected in a New York winner seven years ago at Belmont Park. That time the TRPB found the evidence, a half-filled bottle of Coramine in a track room.

The TRPB still hopes to break the Keep Ideals case but until it does the doping remains one of the big mysteries of the Big A.

Not A Man To Take Joke Lying Down

NIAGARA FALLS (AP) — Robert Pieroni isn't a man to take a joke lying down.

Friends began playing pranks on Pieroni after he bought a small sports car. They put it in a used car lot with a "for sale" sign on it. Then they drove it into a restaurant. Finally they hoisted the car 30 feet onto the roof of another restaurant.

Pieroni decided to play his own prank. He arranged with a friend, City Court Judge Francis L. Giles, to have his joking friends subpoenaed. After hearing the evidence, Giles gravely announced: "Case is adjourned to the restaurant where the car is. We'll have lunch on these practical jokers and figure out a way to get the car down."

Former Dodger Babe Herman who has scouted for the Pirates, Yankees and Phillies, is scouting for the New York Mets, new team in the National League for 1962.

Early Worm Hunter Gets The Legal Bird

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — An early worm hunter has gotten the legal bird from the state attorney general's office.

T. A. Leach of Orofino, Idaho, wrote that he wanted to know if "an adult taxpayer" needed a permit to gather fishing worms from school grounds.

An involved reply from Asst. Atty. Gen. Frank Langley quoted an Idaho statute which says: "Every person who wilfully commits any trespass by maliciously injuring, or severing from the freehold of another, anything attached thereto, or the produce thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Langley advised Leach that if he likes to look for worms at the schoolhouse, he'd better get the school board's permission to hunt.

Clerk, 89, Chalks Up Record Deaths

ORLAND, Maine (AP) — In his 62 years as town clerk, Ernest O. Sugden figures that "I've recordered more deaths than there are people in town now."

That would be more than 1,195, which is the 1960 Census total for this eastern Maine community.

At 89, Sugden is the oldest man in town. Besides being town clerk, he's a notary public, insurance agent, surveyor and repairer of watches and jewelry.

He's also a bachelor because, he says, "I never had the time" to get married.

The Southington, Conn., native plans to stay on as town clerk as long as he is able, despite the fact that the job requires more of his time each year. Why? "Nobody else wants the job."

Tips On Jail Visits Combat Delinquency

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Parents are allowed to tour the Erie County jail with their teen-age sons in an effort to combat juvenile delinquency.

On the twice-weekly visits, arranged by two clergymen, the boys see the cell blocks, talk with inmates, and walk into an empty cell.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Franklin Kelliher, Cathoic chaplain, and the Rev. Marshall Lucas, Protestant chaplain, said they believe most boys get their ideas of jail from movies or television.

"They have no real conception of the cold steel of jail bars or how small a prison cell is," the clergymen said.

ELMONTE, Calif. (AP) — A food market circular recently carried an ad saying:

That's the phone number for the police department and the calls flooded in. Expasperated officers spent considerable time explaining they weren't looking for an engraver.

"It probably was somebody we pinched trying to get back at us," said Sgt. Earl Roberts. "What a way to get revenge!"

Helpers Are Needed For U.S. Specialists

CINCINNATI (AP) — The nation is not so much lacking in scientists and engineers as in competently educated personnel to work with such specialists, says Dr. G. Ross Henninger, president of the Ohio College of Applied Science and the Ohio Mechanics Institute.

"On the basis of American industry's need," Henninger claims, "there should have been 114,000 engineering technicians graduated last June to balance the 38,000 graduate engineers."

Actually, Henninger says, only 11,000 engineering technicians were graduated from accredited or acceptable technical institutes.

A 60-foot display model of the missile was supposed to be raised on a truck at a downtown intersection but its crew couldn't get it up because of a power failure in the lifting device.

Along came doughnut salesman Richard Lord in his truck. He offered the use of his truck's spare generator.

Production Continues At Globe

Cleanup Launched After Blaze

Cleanup operations were underway this morning at the Globe Brick Co. and production continued despite the loss of a drying shed that was destroyed in one of two fires in Newell over the weekend.

Fire of an undetermined origin razed the frame and metal building on the yard of the plant shortly before noon Saturday. There was no estimate of damage, but quick action by firemen and plant officials limited the loss to the building, some electrical equipment and an estimated 100 cars of "green" brick.

The debris was being cleared away and normal operations continued.

The "green" brick housed in the building was lost because of a soaking from the hoses of firemen from Newell, Chester and East Liverpool. Besides the stock, an electric fan and a small push truck also were lost.

Winston A. Porter, president, commended firemen for their promptness in arriving at the scene to help save the adjoining buildings, which housed drying machinery.

The fire was discovered at about 11:20 a. m. Saturday by Ralph Arrington, head kilnfiremen. Arrington fought the flames with an extinguisher and notified Ever Parsons, the plant foreman.

Parsons alerted Newell firemen, and the plant president summoned help by sounding the alarm over the plant's intercom system and called Chester and East Liverpool firemen.

There were no employes in the area at time the fire broke out, as production is partially curtailed on Saturday.

Corrugated metal attached to the ends of the frame building also helped localize the flames to the drying shed. The building was about 50 feet wide, and 80 feet in length.

The flames sent pillars of smoke hundreds of feet into the air, seen by residents in this area for miles. Newell firemen and insurance adjustors will investigate.

Newell was darkened by a power failure for an hour and a half Sunday night when trouble developed in the sub-station of the Monongahela Power Co. at 4th and Lincoln Sts.

The utility said a bushing burned out on the main transformer, causing an oil fuse to fail. Power was disrupted for 800 homes and the Metsch Refractories and Edwin M. Knowles China Co. from about 8 to 9:55 p. m.

A work crew from Weirton was called to make emergency repairs and Newell firemen stood by. There was only a small fire, but the failure produced flashes of fire and sparks.

Newell firemen also quelled a small blaze in an electric motor of an automatic laundry on Washington St. about 8:15, shortly after the sub-station power shortage.

Firemen said a motor of an exhaust fan apparently became overheated. Damage was limited to the motor of the fan which circulates air in the laundry room. Firemen were forced to break down the door to enter the building and disconnect the motor.

It Happened At Aqueduct

Several Questions Raised Since Horse Doping Case

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

How easy is it to stimulate a race horse?

What precautions are taken against horse doping?

How are stimulants detected?

Is it compulsory in New York to suspend a trainer whose horse has been doped?

These questions, and a few others, have been raised since Keep Ideals, a 3-year-old Stymie filly worth $4,000, earned a $2,275 purse (since taken away) by winning the second race at Aqueduct on the fourth day of New York's $500 million racing season.

A saliva test proved conclusively that Keep Ideals, saddled by Hirsch Jacobs, the nation's leading trainer, had been administered a dose of Coramine a few hours before the race.

Coramine is a respiratory stimulant used extensively on humans, especially new born babies. Its possession around a New York race track is illegal.

The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau whose job includes investigating fully all cases involving a horse drugging, has questioned everyone known to have been around Barn 8 the day of the race. That's where Hirsch Jacobs has 42 horses under his care. He has 27 stable employees.

AQUEDUCT was rebuilt less than two years ago at a cost of $33 million. It can seat 30,000 patrons and last Memorial Day held a 70,992. However, its stable area holds 500 horses and has sleeping quarters for 150 men.

That means it is impossible to watch every horse every minute. The doping of Keep Ideals is the second case of record at the Big A.

On opening day of 1960, Parky Tone, one of Trainer Frank E. Cundall's horses, ran second. Like all winners and place horses the animal was subject to the saliva or spit box test. The findings came up positive. Butazolidin, a pain killer, was detected. It is legal only at tracks in Illinois, Kentucky and Florida. Cundall was suspended 60 days, not for the stimulation but because Aqueduct stewards felt the trainer had been negligent in the security of his stable.

In New York it is not compulsory to suspend a trainer whose horse has been doped. In some other states, it is.

IN THE recent Keep Ideals case, Jacobs was given a clean bill of health. The fact that he led the nation's money winning trainers with $748,349 in purses in 1960, that he helps fill Aqueduct's racing programs with entries or that his record never has been suspect had nothing to do with the stewards' ruling. The stewards felt he had enough help around his barn to keep strangers at a distance.

Besides the test in which horses chew on gauze pads to produce saliva dripings in a tray, there also is urinalysis. One mystery in the Keep Ideals case was that the urinalysis was negative.

Four days after the recent doping, the stewards informed Jacobs of the positive saliva test. It was Jacobs who leaked out the story plus the fact that John Scott, a 57-year-old Negro groom in his employ, had a criminal record.

Scott once served 10 years and 7 months in jail on a second degree manslaughter charge. He was released in 1944.

Jacobs has said that he was unaware of Scott's past. However, even before Scott was fingerprinted by the Pinkertons and his prints processed by the TRPB, the groom volunteered his record. It was because of this admission that the track stewards permitted him to work for Trainer Eugene Weymouth. The latter knew of Scott's background. Two years ago, Jacobs hired Scott but apparently didn't check.

"THE fact that Scott had a record makes him no more or less of a suspect in this (doping) case," says Robert H. Laughlin, a pleasant white - haired 56-year-old native of Mitchell, Ind., and former FBI man who is the TRPB agent in charge of the investigation.

"Since 1956," adds Laughlin," the first year of the New York Racing Association, about 62,705 horses have gone to the saliva box. There have been only six positive results.

"There was nothing unusual in the wagering on the day in question, and it was a rather simple matter to check. March 23 was the worst weather of the spring and the poorest crowd (13,515) came out. Trainer Jacobs thought his horse ran a good race two days previously when he ran into a wall of horses. Jockey Mike Sorrentino said 'there was no change in the horse's running; he showed no unusual characteristic.' "

Coramine was last detected in a New York winner seven years ago at Belmont Park. That time the TRPB found the evidence, a half-filled bottle of Coramine in a track room.

The TRPB still hopes to break the Keep Ideals case but until it does the doping remains one of the big mysteries of the Big A.

Not A Man To Take Joke Lying Down

NIAGARA FALLS (AP) — Robert Pieroni isn't a man to take a joke lying down.

Friends began playing pranks on Pieroni after he bought a small sports car. They put it in a used car lot with a "for sale" sign on it. Then they drove it into a restaurant. Finally they hoisted the car 30 feet onto the roof of another restaurant.

Pieroni decided to play his own prank. He arranged with a friend, City Court Judge Francis L. Giles, to have his joking friends subpoenaed. After hearing the evidence, Giles gravely announced: "Case is adjourned to the restaurant where the car is. We'll have lunch on these practical jokers and figure out a way to get the car down."

Former Dodger Babe Herman, who has scouted for the Pirates, Yankees and Phillies, is scouting for the New York Mets, new team in the National League for 1962.

He Started His Tuba Career In 2nd Grade

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Ronald Bishop, 26, of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra says he started his tuba-playing career in the second - grade because he wasn't big enough to play the trombone.

"They had a tuba they needed played, so they started me playing it," he says. He couldn't play the trombone in the school band because he "couldn't reach the positions."

Early Worm Hunter Gets The Legal Bird

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — An early worm hunter has gotten the legal bird from the state attorney general's office.

T. A. Leach of Orofino, Idaho, wrote that he wanted to know if "an adult taxpayer" needed a permit to gather fishing worms from school grounds.

An involved reply from Asst. Atty. Gen. Frank Langley quoted an Idaho statute which says: "Every person who wilfully commits any trespass by maliciously injuring, or severing from the freehold of another, anything attached thereto, or the produce thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Langley advised Leach that if he likes to look for worms at the schoolhouse, he'd better get the school board's permission to hunt.

Clerk, 89, Chalks Up Record Deaths

ORLAND, Maine (AP) — In his 62 years as town clerk, Ernest O. Sugden figures that "I've recordered more deaths than there are people in town now."

That would be more than 1,195, which is the 1960 Census total for this eastern Maine community.

At 89, Sugden is the oldest man in town. Besides being town clerk, he's a notary public, insurance agent, surveyor and repairer of watches and jewelry.

He's also a bachelor because, he says, "I never had the time" to get married.

The Southington, Conn., native plans to stay on as town clerk as long as he is able, despite the fact that the job requires more of his time each year. Why? "Nobody else wants the job."

Tips On Jail Visits Combat Delinquency

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Parents are allowed to tour the Erie County jail with their teen-age sons in an effort to combat juvenile delinquency.

On the twice-weekly visits, arranged by two clergymen, the boys see the cell blocks, talk with inmates, and walk into an empty cell.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Franklin Kelliher, Cathoic chaplain, and the Rev. Marshall Lucas, Protestant chaplain, said they believe most boys get their ideas of jail from movies or television.

"They have no real conception of the cold steel of jail bars or how small a prison cell is," the clergymen said.

'Revenge' Ad Irks Police Department

ELMONTE, Calif. (AP) — A food market circular recently carried an ad saying:

"Wanted. Engraver. Must be familiar with faces of Lincoln and Jackson. A lot of money can be made by right man. Call Gilbert 8-6191."

That's the phone number for the police department and the calls flooded in. Expasperated officers spent considerable time explaining they weren't looking for an engraver.

"It probably was somebody we pinched trying to get back at us," said Sgt. Earl Roberts. "What a way to get revenge!"

Helpers Are Needed For U.S. Specialists

CINCINNATI (AP) — The nation is not so much lacking in scientists and engineers as in competently educated personnel to work with such specialists, says Dr. G. Ross Henninger, president of the Ohio College of Applied Science and the Ohio Mechanics Institute.

"On the basis of American industry's need," Henninger claims, "there should have been 114,000 engineering technicians graduated last June to balance the 38,000 graduate engineers."

Actually, Henninger says, only 11,000 engineering technicians were graduated from accredited or acceptable technical institutes.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Water Retention Delays Weight Loss

"You don't know what you are writing about when you say that 'by trimming 500 calories a day off your meals, you can lose a pound a week.'

Ida Jean Kain

"This is extremely ridiculous and I can give you a case in point — me! I am 21, 10 pounds overweight, and a working wife.

"I cut my calorie intake from approximately 3,000 to 1,000 a day, never exceeding 1,100. I have been on this diet about two months and have lost three pounds. I have followed a well-balanced diet. Also I have stepped up my exercise. Do you have an explanation and solution?"

Yes. The explanation is based on the unpredictable factors, water retention and water release. It is highly important for dieters to understand this shift in water balance otherwise you may become discouraged and give up when success is in your grasp.

FAT IS STORED in the body in little individual cells, each of which contain a droplet of fat. When fuel intake, as measured in terms of calories, is cut below the amount used daily, stored fat is called on to make up the fuel deficit.

Fat is lost in direct proportion to the fuel furnished by the stored fat. But here's the hitch. As the droplets of fat get smaller, water temporarily replaces the lost fat in the cells.

When millions of fat cells are retaining water, there will be no evidence of lost weight until this excess water is released through the kidneys. This may take ten days, 16 days, or even three weeks. When your calories are below your fuel requirements, you are using fat.

Granted, it's hard to believe you are reducing, particularly if the pointer goes up! This paradox can be explained, too. Water weighs more than the fat it has replaced.

As a rule, the more overweight you are, the more you are likely to lose at the start of a diet. There is a larger amount of soft, watery fat which often responds quickly to a cut in calories. With these fast initial losers, the water retention period occurs after the soft fat is gone.

Water retention to the contrary, it is still possible to predict the approximate date at which you can expect to reach your desirable weight.

BODY FAT furnishes 3,500 calories per pound. If you establish a fuel deficit of 500 calories a day, this will amount to a loss of one pound of fat per week.

True, because of water retention this loss may not show on the scales as a pound a week. But some weeks you will lose more than can be accounted for by the calorie subtraction. In the long, run, you will come down the expected amount in the predicted time.

Exercise, by toning the muscles, can help the dieter lose inches even though the loss is not apparent on the scales.

Trustees Create Post Of Provost In College Fight

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Wesleyan University's board of trustees, drawn into the feud between the faculty and President David A. Lockmiller, has created a new administrative office of provost.

The provost will be the agent of and will report to the board, pending completion of a study by a panel of consultants, the board said.

Trustees elected Dr. Elden T. Smith, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, as provost. Smith is currently dean of students at Bowling Green State University.

The panel of consultants will review the entire structure of the university's administrative and academic functions. Smith will be responsible for faculty relations, academic and student personnel programs, the board said.

The trustees added that President Lockmiller, as chief administrative officer, will remain responsible for the general welfare of the university and in direct charge of its fiscal policy and capital planning, as well as being responsible for public, alumni and church relations.

In recent weeks, faculty and student groups have asked for Lockmiller's resignation or the appointment of a provost by the trustees.

Several faculty members, voicing protest to alleged interference by Lockmiller in promotions and raises, have resigned, and student groups claim the year-long feud between the president and the faculty is damaging the university's reputation.

Reds Warn On Tests Of Nuclear Weapons

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet government said today it might have to resume testing nuclear and hydrogen weapons unless the United States and Britain get France to abandon its testing program.

The assertion was contained in a formal statement the Soviet delegate, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, read into the record of the deadlocked nuclear conference at its 305th session.

"The Soviet Union has repeatedly stated that the French tests complicate the reaching of an agreement" on a worldwide suspension of nuclear weapons testing, the statement said. "This may force the Soviet Union to resume testing of nuclear and hydrogen bombs."

It's A Sight To Behold As Carp Are Rollin'

By DON MILLER
President, Outdoor Writers of Ohio
(For The Associated Press)

Plumes of water soared five and six feet into the air, hurled there by thousands of golden bodies twisting, splashing and threshing in the Lake Erie marsh.

Wells Mole Jr. of Grafton, Lorain County, spun his head from side to side, taking in the frenzied activity.

"I don't believe it!" he gasped.

He couldn't be blamed for the opinion, even though he was a first-hand witness to one of nature's strangest facets of the Ohio scene, The annual courting and spawning trek of the lowly carp has to be seen to be believed. And even then there's a reluctance to accept what the eyes see.

In the reeds and lily pads, wherever there's the slightest bit of water, carp roll around and around, splashing in a frenzy to be rid of several pounds of eggs apiece.

It's in May and June that dedicated bow and arrow hunters prowl the marshes, seeking the egg-laden "sows." Many of these carp tip the scales at 30 to 40 pounds and even more.

The most spectacular activity, however, comes from the smaller carp, those able to smash their way through heavy vegetation covered by little more than morning dew. The lunkers—the trophy fish—stick to deeper water, cruising the edges of cattails and other aquatic growth.

They're wary. Maybe that's why they've been able to survive and water, a glimpse of a fin or tail or a shadow beneath the surface reveal their comings and goings.

These are the fish the veteran bow hunter stalks.

Many pursue these carp by wading in the sticky mud, standing motionless for hours at a stretch near a likely spot. It's hard, bone-tiring work, offset by the promise of stunning action at any moment.

The hunter-angler who seeks the whoppers, however, hunts them from a tiny boat placed at the edge of reed beds, between the small fish and deep water. The boat puts the bowman right where king-sized chunks of golden dynamite cruise the waters, and at a far easier cost to the body.

Equipment used in carp shooting is simple and surprisingly inexpensive. It consists of a heavy glass arrow with garbed head; a reel, which can be nothing more than a coffee can; a bow; and stout line. The reel, used for nothing except to hold line out of the way, is taped to the bow. The line links the arrow to the reel, and the bowman to the exploding fury of a hit fish.

The beginner, blood boiling at all the potential action, is inclined to shoot at every possible target. Learning to score hits takes but little time, and in half an hour or less he's beginning to pass up the smaller fish, concentrating on the huge females which carry five or six pounds of eggs.

Since there's no limit in Ohio on carp, the bowman can load his boat with hundreds of pounds of fish in a single afternoon. Filleted and fried, the small carp early in the spring are tasty, contrary to general opinion. The larger fish, however, are good eating only when steaked and smoked.

Smoked carp is superb in flavor, so rich that only a few pieces can be eaten at a sitting—and expensive at the fish market. The large carp, at any time of the season, are a bit strong in flavor for most persons. Even so they're not deserving of the "trash fish" label pinned on them by many who've never bothered to try eating any.

This year, unseasonably cold weather and snow have delayed start of the carp migration into the marshes along Lake Erie and into the shallows of inland lakes. Four or five warm days in a row, however, will result in a different story.

Then the word will spread like wildfire, sending hundreds of bow hunters to the marshes — "The carp are rollin'!"

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Water Retention Delays Weight Loss

"You don't know what you are writing about when you say that 'by trimming 500 calories a day off your meals, you can lose a pound a week.'

Ida Jean Kain

"This is extremely ridiculous and I can give you a case in point — me! I am 21, 10 pounds overweight, and a working wife.

"I cut my calorie intake from approximately 3,000 to 1,000 a day, never exceeding 1,100. I have been on this diet about two months and have lost three pounds. I have followed a well-balanced diet. Also I have stepped up my exercise. Do you have an explanation and solution?"

Yes. The explanation is based on the unpredictable factors, water retention and water release. It is highly important for dieters to understand this shift in water balance otherwise you may become discouraged and give up when success is in your grasp.

FAT IS STORED in the body in little individual cells, each of which contain a droplet of fat. When fuel intake, as measured in terms of calories, is cut below the amount used daily, stored fat is called on to make up the fuel deficit.

Fat is lost in direct proportion to the fuel furnished by the stored fat. But here's the hitch. As the droplets of fat get smaller, water temporarily replaces the lost fat in the cells.

When millions of fat cells are retaining water, there will be no evidence of lost weight until this excess water is released through the kidneys. This may take ten days, 16 days, or even three weeks. When your calories are below your fuel requirements, you are using fat.

Granted, it's hard to believe you are reducing, particularly if the pointer goes up! This paradox can be explained, too. Water weighs more than the fat it has replaced.

As a rule, the more overweight you are, the more you are likely to lose at the start of a diet. There is a larger amount of soft, watery fat which often responds quickly to a cut in calories. With these fast initial losers, the water retention period occurs after the soft fat is gone.

Water retention to the contrary, it is still possible to predict the approximate date at which you can expect to reach your desirable weight.

BODY FAT furnishes 3,500 calories per pound. If you establish a fuel deficit of 500 calories a day, this will amount to a loss of one pound of fat per week.

True, because of water retention this loss may not show on the scales as a pound a week. But some weeks you will lose more than can be accounted for by the calorie subtraction. In the long run, you will come down the expected amount in the predicted time.

Exercise, by toning the muscles, can help the dieter lose inches even though the loss is not apparent on the scales.

Trustees Create Post Of Provost In College Fight

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Wesleyan University's board of trustees, drawn into the feud between the faculty and President David A. Lockmiller, has created a new administrative office of provost.

The provost will be the agent of and will report to the board, pending completion of a study by a panel of consultants, the board said.

Trustees elected Dr. Eiden T. Smith, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, as provost. Smith is currently dean of students at Bowling Green State University.

The panel of consultants will review the entire structure of the university's administrative and academic functions. Smith will be responsible for faculty relations, academic and student personnel programs, the board said.

The trustees added that President Lockmiller, as chief administrative officer, will remain responsible for the general welfare of the university and in direct charge of its fiscal policy and capital planning, as well as being responsible for public, alumni and church relations.

In recent weeks, faculty and student groups have asked for Lockmiller's resignation or the appointment of a provost by the trustees.

Several faculty members, voicing protest to alleged interference by Lockmiller in promotions and raises, have resigned, and student groups claim the year-long feud between the president and the faculty is damaging the university's reputation.

Reds Warn On Tests Of Nuclear Weapons

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet government said today it might have to resume testing nuclear and hydrogen weapons unless the United States and Britain get France to abandon its testing program.

The assertion was contained in a formal statement the Soviet delegate, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, read into the record of the deadlocked nuclear conference at its 305th session.

"The Soviet Union has repeatedly stated that the French tests complicate the reaching of an agreement" on a worldwide suspension of nuclear weapons testing, the statement said. "This may force the Soviet Union to resume testing of nuclear and hydrogen bombs."

It's A Sight To Behold As Carp Are Rollin'

By DON MILLER
President, Outdoor Writers of Ohio
(For The Associated Press)

Plumes of water soared five and six feet into the air, hurled there by thousands of golden bodies twisting, splashing and threshing in the Lake Erie marsh.

Wells Mole Jr. of Grafton, Lorain County, spun his head from side to side, taking in the frenzied activity.

"I don't believe it!" he gasped.

He couldn't be blamed for the opinion, even though he was a first-hand witness to one of nature's strangest facets of the Ohio scene, The annual courting and spawning trek of the lowly carp has to be seen to be believed. And even then there's a reluctance to accept what the eyes see.

In the reeds and lily pads, wherever there's the slightest bit of water, carp roll around and around, splashing in a frenzy to be rid of several pounds of eggs apiece.

It's in May and June that dedicated bow and arrow hunters prowl the marshes, seeking the egg-laden "sows." Many of these carp tip the scales at 30 to 40 pounds and even more.

The most spectacular activity, however, comes from the smaller carp, those able to smash their way through heavy vegetation covered by little more than morning dew. The lunkers—the trophy fish—stick to deeper water, cruising the edges of cattails and other aquatic growth.

They're wary. Maybe that's why they've been able to survive and water, a glimpse of a fin or tail or a shadow beneath the surface reveal their comings and goings.

These are the fish the veteran bow hunter stalks.

Many pursue these carp by wading in the sticky mud, standing motionless for hours at a stretch near a likely spot. It's hard, bone-tiring work, offset by the promise of stunning action at any moment.

The hunter-angler who seeks the whoppers, however, hunts them from a tiny boat placed at the edge of reed beds, between the small fish and deep water. The boat puts the bowman right where king-sized chunks of golden dynamite cruise the waters, and at a far easier cost to the body.

Equipment used in carp shooting is simple and surprisingly inexpensive. It consists of a heavy glass arrow with garbed head; a reel, which can be nothing more than a coffee can; a bow; and stout line. The reel, used for nothing except to hold line out of the way, is taped to the bow. The line links the arrow to the reel, and the bowman to the exploding fury of a hit fish.

The beginner, blood boiling at all the potential action, is inclined to shoot at every possible target. Learning to score hits takes but little time, and in half an hour or less he's beginning to pass up the smaller fish, concentrating on the huge females which carry five or six pounds of eggs.

Since there's no limit in Ohio on carp, the bowman can load his boat with hundreds of pounds of fish in a single afternoon. Filleted and fried, the small carp early in the spring are tasty, contrary to general opinion. The larger fish, however, are good eating only when steaked and smoked.

Smoked carp is superb in flavor, so rich that only a few pieces can be eaten at a sitting—and expensive at the fish market. The large carp, at any time of the season, are a bit strong in flavor for most persons. Even so they're not deserving of the "trash fish" label pinned on them by many who've never bothered to try eating any.

This year, unseasonably cold weather and snow have delayed start of the carp migration into the marshes along Lake Erie and into the shallows of inland lakes. Four or five warm days in a row, however, will result in a different story.

Then the word will spread like wildfire, sending hundreds of bow hunters to the marshes — "The carp are rollin'!"

There Are Some Real Buys In Used Cars

Have you noticed The Used Cars in the Tri-State Area lately? If you haven't you ought to have a look around.

The auto Dealers of the Tri-State Area are well stocked with early and late model cars at most any price you feel you can afford. Most of these cars are trade-ins on new cars, many have low mileage and have been properly cared for, thereby insuring value for your dollar. Why don't you and the family visit one of the dealers and see just what they can offer you. They are here to serve you.

There Are Some Real Buys In Used Cars

Have you noticed The Used Cars in the Tri-State Area lately? If you haven't you ought to have a look around.

The auto Dealers of the Tri-State Area are well stocked with early and late model cars at most any price you feel you can afford. Most of these cars are trade-ins on new cars, many have low mileage and have been properly cared for, thereby insuring value for your dollar. Why don't you and the family visit one of the dealers and see just what they can offer you. They are here to serve you.

30th Anniversary Observed

DAR Honors Charter Members

These charter members were honored at the 30th anniversary observance of Rebecca Griscom Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Saturday afternoon at the Mary Patterson Memorial. Some 100 attended.

Of the original 42 charter members, others still active are: Mrs. C. Walter Ashbaugh, Miss Lydian Bennett, Mrs. J. W. Boothman, Mrs. John W. Vodrey, Mrs. Arthur Wells and Mrs. J. K. Moffatt.

Past regents receiving recognition were: Mrs. Gass, Mrs. Cawood, Mrs. Ashbaugh, Miss Mary Edna Boyd, Mrs. M. D. McCutcheon, Mrs. Wilhelm, Mrs. John Fitch, Miss Sara Heddleston, Mrs. Joseph Martz, Mrs. Cletus Patterson, Miss Eleanor Jane Bennett, Mrs. William E. Kaiser and Mrs. Donald Thompson.

Mrs. J. W. Batey, regent, extended the welcome. Mrs. Neil Shope, program chairman, introduced E. King Mathews, director of choirs at the East Liverpool High School and First Methodist Church. His selections were "Into The Night" (Edwards), "Without a Song" (Youmans) and "Climb Every Mountain" (Rodgers and Hammerstein). Miss Bennett was accompanist.

Mrs. Shope gave the background of the speaker, Edward T. Heald of Canton, historian of the Stark County Historical Society.

He reviewed excerpts of the book, "In The Days of McKinley," written by Margaret Leech. He recalled when William McKinley, then governor, and his wife attended the wedding of Miss Mayme McDonald and Will Taylor, whose mansion stood where the present City Hall stands.

J. N. Taylor, Will's father, was active in politics and also had entertained William Howard Taft, when he was president, and Warren Harding, when he was Lieutenant Governor of the State.

Mrs. Will Taylor and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Weinhardt, were present. Mrs. Taylor displayed a picture of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley posing with J. N. Taylor. Mrs. Weinhardt, the former Pauline Taylor, showed the audience a silver cup, heavily engraved, presented to her at birth by the President and his wife. Another daughter, Mrs. Malcolm Thompson, formerly Mildred Taylor, was unable to be present.

Mrs. Kaiser conducted devotions, reading Scripture from Genesis and leading the group in saluting the flag and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Among the guests were Atty. William H. Vodrey Jr., a member of the Stark County Historical Society, H. B. Barth, curator of the East Liverpool Historical Society Museum, Mrs. Heald, who accompanied her husband, and Mrs. E. King Mathews.

Refreshments were served at a buffet table decorated with an arrangement of red carnations and white snapdragons, tied with long red streamers. White tapers in five-tier silver candelabra completed the setting. Mrs. Batey and Mrs. Gass presided at the silver tea service.

Mrs. Raymond A. Akins was social chairman, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Cloran and Miss Helen Ryan. The speaker's platform was highlighted with a background of palms and Oriental flowering crabapple. Mrs. G. Jay Clark handled reservations.

The next meeting is June 14, when a "Flag Day" luncheon will be held with the Bethia Southwick Chapter of Wellsville as hostess unit. This will be a joint meeting of all the Columbiana County DAR Chapters.
